INTERNATIONAL AGREEMENT AMONG COMMERCIAL FIRMS.

VISCOUNTESS RHONDDA POINTS TO NEW WAY TO WORLD PEACE.

BANKERS AND FINANCIERS WHO RULE THE NATIONS.

INDUSTRIALISM AND POLITICAL SANITY.

"World rule, in other words world government is coming.
When? One cannot say at this time. But it is coming and, comparatively speaking, it is not so very far off as one might think."

Margaret Haig Thomas, second Viscountess Rhondda, one of Britain's richest and most brilliant women, feminist author, publisher, editor and, among other things, coal-owner, made this prediction to the United Press correspondent who asked her for an interview in her office in Finsbury Street, in the heart of London's newspaper world.

Oil King's Ukase.

"Look at the oil king's recent ukases," she exclaimed. "They want to raise the price of oil, so they all get together and did it. Talk about reaching international agreements. What more could you want?"

"But that is not all. I believe the movement will spread. There will be other ukases issued by the kings of the world's commerce and industry and even finance. Some day, for instance, the attempts to control the price of sugar may succeed. And before we know what has happened to us other gigantic steps of that kind will be taken."

"Indeed, I know people who believe that the great magnates of the commercial world will have completed working agreements among themselves in their respective countries long before their governments succeed in doing as much with others. And when the kings of commerce, industry and finance have reached agreements between themselves in their own countries they will undoubtedly seek to expand their activities throughout the world. Thus the commercial leaders of the world will get together and when that day comes, they will attempt to devise a common policy by means of which they will be enabled to control world prices."

Marked Business Ability.

If contrary to your expectations, you can picture an extremely good-looking woman, dressed in a plain but very attractive black dress, speaking in a gentle tone rendered all the more persuasive by the free use of a very captivating smile, then you can just imagine that you have been introduced to Margaret Haig Thomas, second Viscountess Rhondda.

Lady Rhondda has horn rimmed spectacles too, but she keeps them on her desk for use only when she needs them: "I hope that will not spoil your story," she said and then threatened to put on the glasses. Instead, however, she smiled and as though the severity of spectacles reminded her that some people judged business ability upon looks:—

"There seems to be a general idea," she said, "that because a woman is a woman she may not be credited with opinions or theories of such importance that they look like the product of a male brain.
Thus, one often hears the expression: 'But that woman has the ideas and the brain of a man.'"

Brains and No Brains.

"If I may say so, in a sense the world is divided into men and women some who have and some who have no brains. Brains are not male or female brains, they are just brains. I know quite a number of women whose brains are far superior to those of the average man. And there are, of course, many men whose brains are worth a good deal more than those of the average woman. But this conception of 'male brains' or 'female brains' is, in my opinion, all wrong."

"Brains are equal, regardless of the sex. They depend upon the individual. And I believe that if this conception were used more generally in the conduct of world affairs, it would be far easier for woman to do her share of the human contribution toward the progress of the world."

"For instance, women want peace. But so do men. Let us then, in speaking of war, forget about mothers and remember that fathers too feel their war losses.
If one takes this point of view, there is no reason to suppose that the average woman will influence the future peace of the world more than the average man. And is it not more important that any opposition to war be unanimous rather than mainly feminine? I think it is if results are ever to be obtained."

The Folk Who Matter.

Lady Rhondda paused for a moment then, picking up a copy of the magazine she owns and edits and returning to the subject of World Rule, she showed the correspondent an article entitled "Some Notes on World Rule." It was unsigned being simply "from a correspondent." The article was preceded by an editor's note: "Whilst we are not necessarily to be taken as agreeing with all that is suggested in this article, the point of view expressed to us to be of sufficient interest to warrant publication.—
Editor, Time and Tide."

"We talk," wrote the correspondent, "as if we believed that to get the ordinary folk of one country to make contact with the ordinary folk of another country is the essential preliminary to internationalism and thence to world peace. But since it is not the ordinary folk who control the world, it is really quite immaterial whether they get together or not."

"We are apt to forget that the shrinkage of the world—telephone, wireless, rapid transit, aeroplane—has already put the outstanding men into close communication, and that the lapse of a few more years and the perfecting of the discoveries which we already possess, will—if they so desire it—put the few outstanding men of the world into contact with the ordinary folk of all countries. And when that is done, all is done. For that in effect must mean world-rule, or something so near it as makes no difference."

Tariff Barriers.

Then, after recalling that already all over the world the big men of commerce are beginning to come into close contact with one another:

"Let us suppose that the day came when the great bankers and financiers decided—for example—that world free trade would pay them better than tariff barriers (as indeed it would); or that a certain world-group of commercial magnates demanded some special form of protection; or that some bankers asked for a world coinage; or that a group of employers decided that it would suit them (and in this they might or might not have the world trade unions with them) to make world regulations of hours or wages in certain trades, or to regulate migration from one immigration into certain countries.
Could the national Governments stand out against them?"

And after visualizing firstly the opposition of governments on the grounds that such combinations might infringe, as it would in the United States, anti-trust laws and the like, the correspondent declared that the governments concerned will fight.
"Fight them hard, fight them perhaps even to the point of war," and then concludes:

"But in the end it is the international commercial groups that will win, and then slowly (since where commerce is, there some kind of political sanction and regulation must come also) some form of international government will spring up side by side with these groups, forming perhaps the cohesive substance which gradually binds them into one. And the flag, as ever, following trade—World Government will have come into existence."

Now then if you want to know whether the idea behind the article in Time and Tide originated in a 'male brain' or a 'female brain,' ask Lady Rhondda, but before you do, remember that she is a feminist who does not believe that brain is a matter of sex and in addition, that she is a financier, an industrialist, an editor and an author.

ANOTHER ROYAL MARRIAGE?

A DUTCH ROMANCE.

PRINCESS JULIANA'S NUPTIALS.

[United Press.]

Paris.—Well informed persons in the diplomatic world believe that the next Royal romance may be sought for in Holland where the day when the nuptials of twenty-year-old Princess Juliana, heiress to the throne, will be publicly announced, is fast approaching. It is an open secret that the Queen, Wilhelmina, has been considering with her Government the choice between two European Princes, one believed to be British and the other German. According to rumours which have been denied in Holland the German is the young Prince of Sachsen-Coburg-Gotha. The name of the British Prince is not revealed.

The Prince Consort.

In the Netherlands it is considered as certain that the choice of the future Prince Consort of the Netherlands will lie between Germany and England, since the Dutch have so much in common with both countries.

In England, apart from the Prince of Wales, there are two eligible Princes—the Duke of Gloucester and Prince George. In view of the similarity of problems facing both Holland and Britain in their overseas possessions, notably the East Indies, an alliance by marriage would probably be mutually acceptable to the politicians as well as the people of both countries.

The Prince of Wales would be automatically ruled out as a husband for Princess Juliana, even if Wales were willing to renounce his claim, since the Constitution of the Netherlands forbids marriage with the heir to a foreign Crown. There is no likelihood of an alliance with a Latin nation since Queen Wilhelmina is staunchly Protestant, like most of her country folk.

A German Choice.

Those who ought to know, believe the choice will eventually fall on a German Prince, since her father, the Prince Consort, who was Duke of Mecklenburg, would naturally prefer one of his own race as son-in-law. There are, of course, numerous other historical and blood ties between the Netherlands and Germany.

Princess Juliana was born in 1909 and has been well trained in the duties of Queenship under the tutelage of her practical-minded mother who has herself ruled the country ably for many years. Wilhelmina was only eight years when she became Queen, after the death of her father, William III.

An education as simple as that given to the average Dutch girl belonging to a wealthy family has been accorded the Princess. With other girls of her age she attended the primary school in Holland, afterwards being privately tutored by specially chosen teachers. Her mother always supervised her education.

A healthy, well-built girl, Princess Juliana loves open air life and often spends the summer in camp with girl friends, while she is an enthusiastic skater and is often to be seen on the frozen canals in winter.

Two years ago she had her first taste of the cares of Queenship when she became a member of the Council of State. It was then indicated that marriage was not then contemplated, but that after the Princess had completed a two-year course of study at the University of Leyden the question would probably be finally decided. That is why, at the expiry of the two years, the people of Holland are eagerly awaiting an announcement, while the Chancelleries are busily coupling the Princess' name with the ever diminishing number of Royal eligibles.

NAPOLEON RELICS IN COURT.

ALLEGED THEFT BY A WOMAN TENANT.

A teapot and articles of cutlery used by Napoleon during his captivity in St. Helena were among a large number of silver articles produced at Ealing Police Court recently.

They were alleged to have been stolen from Captain Henry Baynam, a retired naval officer, at Perivale Gardens, Ealing, whose wife is a descendant of the officer who was Governor of St. Helena while Napoleon was there.

The person accused of stealing them was Mrs. Patricia Ann Greenfield, aged fifty-one, of Unwin Mansions, Kensington, who was stated to have rented Captain Baynam's house furnished from April 10 last year until April 2 this year.

Detective Sergeant Parker said that he saw Mrs. Greenfield at Kensington. She denied all knowledge of the alleged thefts, but when he noticed some of the missing articles, he said: "I do not know what made me do it. I have been hard pressed for money."

A remand for a week was ordered.

TRUE BILL IN R.A.F. CASE.

ALLEGED CONSPIRACY OVER YEARS.

MISSING STORES.

"There has been nothing less than a consistent conspiracy spreading over a number of years," said Mr. H. H. Joy, K.C., for the Director of Public Prosecutions, when three civilians and three air-men appeared at Bedfordshire Assizes in connection with the alleged theft of stores from Henlow Aerodrome.

A true bill against the men was returned by the grand jury. The trial was then opened and adjourned.

Harry Williams, Edward Williams, and Joseph Williams, brothers, of the firm of J. Williams and Sons, metal merchants, of Hitchin, and Victor Boynton Adams, an aircraftman in the Royal Air Force, had been committed by the Biggleswade magistrates on a charge of stealing and receiving "certain chattels belonging to his Majesty" from the aerodrome between November 1, 1928, and December 31, 1928.

Conspiracy Charge.

Frank Harold Jenkinson and Reginald Edwin Gwynn, two air-craftsmen in the Royal Air Force, are also on trial, the indictment accusing them of conspiring with the brothers Williams and Adams and with other persons unknown to steal from the aerodrome between the dates named.

Adams and Jenkinson pleaded guilty.

It was decided to take the conspiracy charge first.

Mr. Joy said that he was instructed that in all probability Adams would be invited to give evidence, and he understood that the invitation would be accepted. He suggested that Adams might be dealt with at once.

The judge: If there is any suggestion that he is to be called as a witness I think he should be dealt with at once so that there will be nothing in his mind that he will gain in favour.

Sir Henry Maddocks asked that the sentence should be deferred and Mr. Justice Branson eventually concurred.

Essence of the Case.

Mr. Joy said that the essence of the case was that for a considerable period there had been two classes of persons operating through each other and in many cases in direct conjunction with each other: one class of persons outside the aerodrome, having nothing to do with it except for certain business purposes, the other class inside the aerodrome, who had everything to do with the disposal of stores inside.

"The three Williams' constitute the class outside the aerodrome," said Mr. Joy. "They are in business as metal dealers. Adams, Jenkinson and Gwynn are each of them employed at the aerodrome where they have the handling of the stores."

"There must be extensive stores of every sort and description in a large aerodrome such as this, and if the methods of handling these stores could have been carried out in its entirety, it would have been unlikely that what happened in this case would have happened."

Additions to Figures.

"The people in charge of the section stores had, unfortunately, other duties to perform, and were sometimes unable to give the close attention they would otherwise have been able to give."

Mr. Joy said that instead of the stores being issued only as shown on the triplicate and as originally demanded by the officer of the section, there had been, in some cases, substantial additions to the figures themselves and in other cases there had been actually new demands which were not to be found in any way on the triplicate.

"The case for the prosecution," said Mr. Joy, "is that from time to time the Williams came along with their lorries and quite legitimately passed another inspection, availing themselves of the help of the three men inside in some cases to smuggle and in other cases to take away more or less openly on their lorries goods to which they were not entitled."

£20 FINE FOR CRUELTY.

CAT DESTROYED AFTER VISIT OF R.S.P.C.A. INSPECTOR.

William Gathercole, a grocer, of Ilford, Essex, was fined £20 with 6s. costs at Stratford Police Court for cruelty to a cat. It was stated that on April 18 a woman neighbour saw the cat crawling along a fence, apparently with a broken leg. The cat was seen in the same state on succeeding days until April 25, when R.S.P.C.A. inspector. Gathercole then consented to the cat being destroyed. A veterinary surgeon found that the cat's leg was broken and that the animal was emaciated.

INDO-AFGHAN SITUATION.

A MISCHIEVOUS CARTOON.

MORE "RED" PROPAGANDA.

[United Press.]

Moscow.—A recent cartoon on the Afghan situation in the official Pravda here shows Bata-Sakou as a puppet on a human hand, Bata-Sakou in turn operates a smaller marionette labelled the former Emir of Bokhara. The human hand which runs this whole puppet show belongs to Sir Austen Chamberlain—that is to say, to England.

Enough of the monochrome which symbolises Sir Austen for the Soviet public shows on the margin to make this clear.

The cartoon is an accurate summary of the official version of the complicated imbroglio in Afghanistan, a version which the public here accepts as beyond dispute. England is represented not only as the instigator of the revolt against Amanullah and the power behind the battered Kabul throne, but its alleged methods and motives are depicted in fulsome detail. The recent intrusion of refugees from Turkestan into the picture are likewise traced to British influence.

Soviet Interests.

The Soviet capital is scarcely satisfactory as a source of news on Afghan affairs. The Government here has a great deal at stake in the game that is being played in mid-Asia and no doubt edits frontier dispatches with an eye to policy before releasing them to the censored press here.

It would be futile, therefore, to attempt from this end an analysis of the Soviet charges against British diplomacy. But it is of interest to understand the nature of those charges. They have been made directly and by implication in dozens of officially inspired editorials.

The fullest statement on the matter, as well as the latest, appears in a recent article appearing in Moskovskii Rundschau, a German-language weekly published in Moscow. The pseudonym "Fagmanskii" over the article, it is known to correspondents here, covers a Foreign Office personality who has good reason for writing with an air of authority.

"The crumbling of Afghanistan," he declares, "is its alienation into a conglomeration of mutually unfriendly struggling provinces, which will not be strong enough to defend themselves against the aggressive objectives of imperialism—that is the goal of Afghan imperialism, in the interests of which the Afghan reaction is active."

More Cautious.

Later the writer becomes more cautious. Instead of mentioning England he refers to a "power" behind Bata-Sakou, and enumerates the purposes of this power thus:

"1.—The independent Mussulman State, which lays directly at the gates of India, forming a strong support for the Indian national freedom movement, must be liquidated."

"2.—Afghanistan must be weakened and through its dismemberment a forced revision of the Indo-Afghan frontier will take place."

"3.—Northern Afghanistan must be turned into a region for the preparation of interventions in Soviet mid-Asia (at first in the form of bandit raids)."

The last accusation looms as the most important in public opinion here just now. Prisoners taken by the Red Army in driving back bandit groups from Afghanistan are allegedly revealing that Bata-Sakou is organised and equipped them and that he is in close alliance with the former Emir of Bokhara and other emigrants from Soviet Turkestan.

The preparations for the raids, according to dispatches published here, were made in the province of Kattagano-Badachshan. "And there is not the slightest doubt," the article declares, "that the Administration of this province took part in the formation and equipment of the bands. . . . Likewise there is no doubt that the arming of these bands came from another richer source than the small Kabul arsenals."

The process of violently altering the Indo-Afghan frontier, Soviet spokesmen insist, is already well under way. The Afghan territory of Asmar has been occupied by tribesmen from the Indian side. Among the tribes of Djellalabad and Khost-Gardes a strong agitation is reported for the creation of a new independent State. If such a State were created, it would add to the so-called "independent" tribes zone which has in reality long been a part of the Indo-British Empire, as the same article puts it.

MARRIED WOMEN SLAVES.

CONDITIONS IN MANY LANDS.

FREEDOM LEAGUE'S AGITATION.

The Women's Freedom League has decided that it is high time something was done for the liberation of the women in those countries where the wife is virtually a slave, and as no other organisation seems disposed to take the matter up they mean to start a vigorous propaganda. They are now preparing to send a questionnaire to all Parliamentary candidates. They arrived at this decision after a stirring speech on the slavery of marriage made at their annual meeting by Miss Nina Boyle, who has spent fourteen years in South Africa and has collected a mass of information on the marriage laws in many countries.

Marriage was in many lands (Miss Boyle pointed out) little better than sexual slavery. Women were bought for a price, and married without their consent and without any idea that their feelings should be considered. Sometimes indeed their marriage was arranged for before their birth, and no matter how repulsive the union might be to the girl she had to submit. If in the majority of cases they were resigned to their traditional lot, there was evidence that very often "the women gave trouble." Miss Boyle instanced the law in Basutoland, a native reservation governed by the Paramount Chief and his headmen, and directly under the control of the Colonial Office.

Native Women's Restriction Act.

In 1915, she said, by proclamation of Lord Buxton, Governor-General of South Africa, the Native Women's Restriction Act was approved. This provides that "no native woman shall leave the territory without the consent (a) if married of her husband, (b) if unmarried of her father or natural guardian." Any woman who succeeds in evading control may be captured like a runaway dog and restored to her owners. To an Englishwoman who protested that this was slavery the Native Commissioner explained that because the girls were well treated they suffered no hardship, but "so many girls run away from the marriages arranged for them, and it makes trouble among the men."

Throughout the tribes of Africa, generally speaking, the woman was a chattel, said Miss Boyle; whether she came from North, South, or Central Africa, she was owned. From her birth to her death she was never her own property. Under Mohammedan law she had certain rights over her person. Among other natives she might not own property at all, being herself property. In the South African territories ruled by the Union Government the native woman was a heritable possession. If her father died she was assessed among the property to be divided among her brothers. If her husband died she belonged to her sons, and if she had no sons she could be claimed by the nearest male relative at any age under any circumstances. She could be removed from lucrative and congenial employment in civilised conditions on the demand of the men who owned her.

"Magistrates and native commissioners support these demands," said Miss Boyle, "and even enforce them. It is undiluted slavery, and none the less slavery because the women are well treated in the main."

Miss Boyle discussed the tribal marriage custom of lobola, which is widespread in South Africa. Under this the payment is generally in cattle, which is exacted by the father for his daughter's marriage, or concubinage, for lobola does not confer the status of wife on the girl. This system was crystallised in an Act passed by the Union in 1927, two years after the signing of the League of Nations Anti-Slavery Convention.

White administrators were anxious to interfere as little as possible with native customs, and the missionaries had to go carefully, though they realised acutely how native girls suffered, especially when, having been educated in mission schools, they are obliged to submit to tribal marriage law.

Mission Teacher's Fate.

In the French colonies of North Africa native law prevailed in native affairs. Miss Boyle quoted the case of an African orphan girl who was brought up at a mission station, trained as teacher, and married to a fellow-convent and teacher. Six months after the marriage she was claimed by another man as the wife bought for him by his father when both of them were babies. The law was perfectly clear that she belonged to the claimant, and she was given to him.

"It would appear to be the established creed," said Miss Boyle, "that men who must not be slaves may keep female slaves, no matter how cruel the conditions of the slavery."

Conditions in the East, as well as in Africa, showed that marriage was indeed for myriads of women slavery.

Psychologist says: Everyone Has Occult Power

Distributes Free Book Describing Unique System which has been tested by scores of New Students who Report Astonishing Results. Also sends Free Psycho-Analysis Character Delineation to all who write at once.

How the average man and woman can develop and use the strange powers of Hypnotism, Suggestion and Telepathy to influence people in business and society.

to correct character defects and curb bad habits, is described in the new book by Elmer E. Knowles, entitled, "The Key to the Development of the Inner Forces." Ten thousand copies of which have been printed for free distribution.

"The Author declares that what is called Hypnotic Power is nothing but a scientific application of the law of Suggestion, and that anyone can easily learn and apply these laws. Astonishing results are reported by those who have tested the new system."

Mr. E. N. Eharada writes: "I should ascribe at least half of my success in passing my college examination to the mental training and power of concentration derived from the 'Knowles System.'"

Another report from Mrs. Anna Brill reads: "I regard Knowles' System as being absolutely indispensable to every ambitious person. It gives intellectual power, self-control and control of others to those who have a progressive tendency." Mr. Franz Wors describes his experiences as follows: "It is really unbelievable what power one can obtain through the wonderful Knowles System. The results are so astounding that I cannot recommend it too highly."

It is desired to distribute the ten thousand free copies of "The Key to the Development of the Inner Forces" to men and women who are interested in the development of their dormant faculties and more especially those who wish to apply the powers of Suggestion and Hypnotism to useful and praiseworthy objects. In addition to supplying the book free, each person who writes at once will also receive a psycho-analysis character delineation of from 400 to 600 words as prepared by Prof. Knowles. If you wish a copy of Prof. Knowles' book and a Character Delineation simply copy the following verse in your own handwriting:

"I want power of mind,
Force and strength in my look,
Please read my Character,
And send me your book."

Also send your full Name and Address plainly printed (state whether Mr., Mrs. or Miss), and address your letter to: PSYCHOLOGY FOUNDATION, S.A. (Free Distribution Dept. 1084), No. 18, rue de Londres, Brussels, Belgium. If you wish your name enclosed, 20 Cents (stamp of your own country) to pay postage, etc. Be sure to put sufficient postage on your letter. Postage to Belgium 10 Cents.

"It is incontestable," she said, "that an immense volume of cruelty is inseparable from these coerced unions, of young girls and children, and of girls already in love, mated to old men, to sexually brutal men, or men whom the girls often detest and hold in fear and abhorrence. It is a question whether even the traffic in the person for immoral purposes is much more productive of cruelty, immorality, and shame, than this condoned and respectable traffic for purposes of marriage. The traffic for marriage obviously covers a far larger area, and concerns an infinitely larger number of women, willing and unwilling, than the more covert traffic for immoral purposes."

The conscience of civilised races could not tolerate the existence of slavery when the slaves were men. The slavery of married women was apparently regarded with indifference. Miss Boyle protested that the Anti-Slavery Convention of the League of Nations did not protect them and that the Anti-Slavery Society of Britain had been appealed to in vain. The women of England must therefore come to their rescue, a view that was at once endorsed by Mrs. Fethick Lawrence.

Nerve-Strength in hot climates

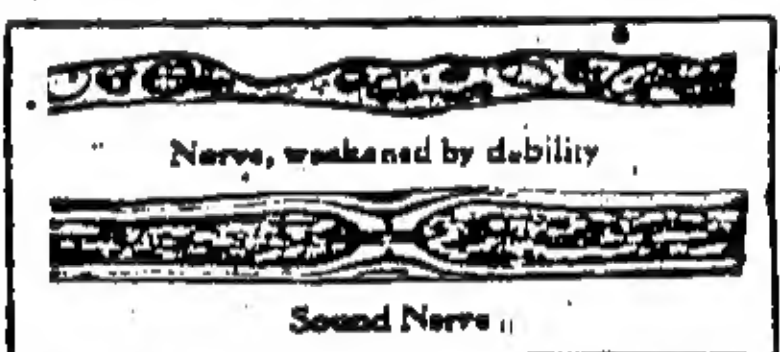

"I am stronger than ever before," wrote a Sanatogen-user, after having taken this preparation for a time.

A hot climate has made many a man a nervous wreck. Remember, however, that you can be strong and full of energy, if you take Sanatogen regularly.

Sanatogen by the power of its constituents—albumin and phosphorus—infuses into the cells of nerves, blood and body, exactly those elements which build up nerve-strength lastingly.

Prof. Mann, formerly of Oxford University, wrote in The Lancet:

"A building-up process goes on in the nerves after the administration of Sanatogen."

Begin a course of Sanatogen. Add strength to strength, work more and better, conquer fatigue and enjoy life even in a hot climate.

SPORT AND ATHLETICS.

WINS FOR PILGRIMS AND OLD ETONIANS.

There was some bright polo at the London clubs recently, with the Whitney Cup competition providing the chief interest. The first of the semi-finals, between the Pilgrims and the Rat-catchers (practically a 16th Lancers side) was decided at Richmond, and the Pilgrims, conceding 13 goals, won by 8 goals to 4. They had an uphill fight for a long time, but, taking the lead in the fourth chukker, they wore their rivals down, and had them well beaten at the finish.

In the second round of the same competition, the Hurricanes were soundly beaten by the Old Etonians at Hurlingham. Old Etonians received 31 goals, and they won by the surprising score of 121 goals to 6. The Hurricanes struck a bad patch, and could never get going as a team.

Old Etonians set the pace at the start, and kept it up to the end. They were a good side, and it was good to see Lord Wodehouse playing in his old form, the winners starting off with four goals before their rivals could score, always had the game well won.

Captain H. Scott-Robson's team of Rovers, receiving 11 goals, beat the Nomads in a league match at Richmond, by 7 goals to 5, while at Hurlingham the Weekly Cup tournament was won by J. B. Young's Grasshoppers, who defeated the Chinchillas by 7 goals to 6.

There were some well-contested games at Ranelagh. "M" Battery R.H.A. drew with a representative club side at 6 goals all, while the Buccaneers defeated the Wanderers 11 goals to 8.

MISS EILEEN BENNETT.

Miss Eileen Bennett, one of England's leading lawn tennis players, has intimated to the Lawn Tennis Association that, in the event of her being selected to go to America in August with the British Wightman Cup team, she will be unable to accept.

Mr. Gerald Bennett, her father, told an interviewer that her mother and himself—and particularly himself—do not like the idea of Eileen being away from them for so long a time as three months.

Miss Bennett will be twenty-two years of age in June. She was presented at the second Court of the season at Buckingham Palace during mail week.

Last year she beat Miss Mallory in the singles in the Wightman Cup contest at Wimbledon, and, with Mrs. Michael Watson, defeated Miss Helen Will and Miss Penelope Anderson in the doubles. Great Britain won the Cup, which the team that is to sail in August will defend at Forest Hills.

THE SEASON'S INTERNATIONAL EVENTS.

Although without a big international event the swimming season is likely to become notable for the numerous contests that have been arranged between British swimmers and those of other countries. British swimmers have taken part in two important international events this year. Although the tour of the women's swimming team in South Africa was primarily an educational one, the team, consisting of the Misses Cooper, King, Mayne, and Tanner, were unbeaten in competitive events. They set up new South African records over almost every distance. A little time ago Plaistow United S.C., the English water polo champions, visited several German cities and played a series of matches. By drawing with Berlin and beating Paris, Plaistow gained the "inter-city" trophy presented by the Lord Mayor of Berlin.

The Royal Brussels S.C., one of the chief clubs at Belgium, visited England at the end of the present month. They will play first at Weston-super-Mare, other fixtures being with two London clubs, Otter S.C. and Plaistow United S.C., on the two following days. In June the Magdeburg 1906 Club, of Germany, will play water polo matches with Croydon, Plaistow United, South Manchester, and Cheltenham. At the end of the month there will be an unofficial team of English swimmers participating in the Jubilee Gala of the Magdeburg Hellas Club. A national water polo team are to compete in a Hungarian tournament at Budapest from August 13 to 20. They will play two matches at Vienna on the way out. The chief international event of the season will be the official visit of a representative German team in September. Two polo matches and team relay races, England v. Germany, have been arranged, one in Birmingham and the other in London. Germany won the Olympic polo championship at Amsterdam last August, while in the relay their disqualified team recorded a much faster time than did their British opponents. Women swimmers will also be busy. In June and July three Dutch champions from the Onderlinge Dames Zwembad, Messrs. M. Braun, the winner of the Olympic back-stroke event and holder of several world records, M. Buron, the breast-stroke representative, and R. Grandel, who competed in the Amsterdam Games, will tour Great Britain. They are due to appear at Ilford on June 29, Birmingham on July 1, Bingley (Yorkshire) on July 3, and at Paisley two days later. They will meet the British swimmers (Continued on next column).

WAS DANE'S PREVIOUS WIN A FLUKE?

Phil Scott, it has been understood for some time, will have at least one more contest before June 30, the time limit fixed by the British Board of Control for the acceptance of a purse for a match with Charlie Smith for the British heavyweight championship.

The name of Knute Hansen, the tall Dane who knocked him out inside a round in New York nearly eighteen months ago, and Jack Renault, the Canadian frontiersman, have been mentioned as Scott's prospective opponent, but Hansen is the more likely. He is in Europe, for one thing, and has been for some time. For another thing, a match between Scott and the man who beat him so sensationally—so flukily, as some say—must have far more chance of appeal to the public, and therefore to promoters.

Hansen, who is in Paris, has signed himself up for three contests, two of them in the French capital; the other contract is with Mr. John Mortimer, who, by arrangement with Billy Gibson, manager of Gene Tunney, Henry Leonard, and other champions, is his and Hansen's representative in England.

Mr. Mortimer is authorised to match the Dane against Scott for any amount the British champion's supporters may feel like naming and Hansen will undertake to be ready to box within a fortnight or three weeks.

PRINCE AT GOLF.

Walter Hagen, interviewed by Reuter at New York, regarding his European tour, said that the peak of it all was his match with the Prince of Wales. He said that the Prince was one of the keenest students of golf he had ever seen. If anything, the Prince was over anxious, and gave Hagen the impression that he had been trying to find out all about the game overnight.

Misses E. King, J. Cooper, and P. Harding, at Ilford, in a three-style relay (breast-stroke, back-stroke, free-style). At Paisley a similar event is being arranged with Misses E. King, E. Howard, and J. McDowell, three Edinburgh girls. Water polo for women is becoming increasingly popular, and additional interest will be taken in the sport this year, as a series of representative matches are to be played. The Welsh Wanderers, a new touring club, visit London in July to play matches with the London Women's Water Polo Association. In September Les Mouettes, a team from Paris, are to play London women's teams, both in the Metropolis and the Provinces.

THE WOMAN'S CORNER.

Your Home and Mine.

COFFEE AND THE FORMAL DINNER.

How many times have you seated enjoyably through the several courses of a formal dinner, rested easily and with comfortable satisfaction while the coffee was being served, only to arise from the table a few moments later, with the burdened and depressed feeling of having over-eaten.

In these days of dieting, this situation hardly applies to the female of the species. But to the average man who eats what is set before him, this state is hardly an uncommon one.

Yet, invariably, about half way through the dinner, the average man will look forward to skipping the dessert in anticipation of his coffee. And now that the cigarette has found favour with both sexes, coffee has taken on an added importance.

Thus the hostess who pays particular attention to the brewing of her after-dinner beverage will find that she has achieved a great measure of success.

It is important to buy coffee freshly roasted. It is much better to buy the coffee in the freshly roasted beans and grind them as needed, than to resort to the tinned product, which is liable to stand too long on the grocer's shelf before it reaches your house.

Glass and porcelain pots are best to use as they can be kept cleaner and fresher than metal pots. The pot should always be scalded before beginning to make coffee in it. It is a good idea to boil water and soda in the pot every week or so as a means of further cleansing.

Many cooks make coffee too weak to suit the average drinker. Not less than one heaping tablespoon of coffee should be used for each cup of water, and then add one extra spoonful for the pot.

Coffee soon loses its flavour and aroma when left to stand after it has been brewed—so make it just before time to serve it.

Many people prefer coffee made by the drip process. For this a special pot should be used. The coffee grains are put in the top, and the boiling water is poured on. When the water has dropped through, the coffee is ready. The taste for coffee is, after all, a habit. Many a homemaker's reputation as a hostess is largely due to the coffee that is served at her table—or in the drawing room, as may be her custom—so it behooves every young person just beginning her housekeeping career, to look well to the kind of coffee she uses, and to the brewing of it, and once she has the secret to guard it carefully.

WHEN YOU MAKE CAKES.

Sift flour and baking powder together.
Prepare tins and oven before starting to make the mixture.
Do all the beating before adding the flour.

Mix large cakes rather moister than small ones.
Cook small cakes in a sharp oven, large ones in a slower one.

Do not move a cake in the oven until it is set, or it will probably fall in.

Very smart is this afternoon gown of crepe satin in which the dull, crepe, side has been used for trimming.

Open the oven door as little as possible, and always close it gently. To see if a cake is cooked, pass a thin bright skewer through the centre. If done it will be quite clean when pulled out.
Turn small cakes on to a wire tray or sieve as soon as they are baked, rich mixtures may cool in the tin.

MR. GLEMBY, THE FACE-FIXER.
BEAUTY FOR WOMEN IN 20 MINUTES.
£1,000,000 A YEAR.

Mr. Phil Glemby is a rather tired, dapper little man, with sensitive hands and a slightly cynical smile, writes a Daily Express correspondent.

One gathers that he is the kind of man whom women try to forget outside the beauty salon. He knows the face by heart, and a man who beautifies in his business two million faces a year, a man who knows all the beauty tricks—having invented half of them—is hardly the man to be taken in by a schoolgirl's complexion.

Some twenty-five years ago Mr. Glemby got on a train. He travelled for many days. When he got off the train he had brought away beauty to America in a chain of parlours throughout the country.

From cowgirls in Texas to dowagers of New York the phrase, "I've been Glembyed" was common conversation. Mr. Glemby's parlours now net more than £1,000,000 and beautify two million faces per year.

"Give Me a Plain Girl."

When I met Mr. Glemby at his hotel he gave me the impression of being rather fed up with faces. A pleasantly ugly negro servant ushered me in to where one of the reasons why American men idolise their women was sitting on a sofa.

We talked. "Give me a plain girl," said Mr. Glemby suddenly. "What for?" I inquired in astonishment. "I want a woman who would make that girl beautiful," said Mr. Glemby.

MAN SEIZED BY A GIRL.
HELD IN A SHOP UNTIL THE POLICE CAME.

George William Chick, a hawk, of Raynes Park, who was remanded at Westminster Police Court on a charge of attempting to obtain money by false pretences, was stated to have called at a confectioner's shop at King's-road, Cheltenham, stating that he had to deliver a small sealed packet and there was 3s. 6d. to pay.

The girl shop assistant, Miss Lilian Smith, took the packet, promptly made her way to the public side of the counter, and it was stated, seized Chick and held him despite his struggle to escape until a policeman came to her assistance. The sealed packet was opened and was found to contain a small piece of tinfoil wrapped in many folds of paper.

"If her hair was flat we could kick it, if her eyes were small, we'd make them big, if her ears bulged we'd flatten 'em, if her mouth was big we'd make it little. All this talk about protracted treatments is wrong. Within twenty minutes any woman with a good skin and teeth can look beautiful."

"Why can't your beauty parlours pay like ours? You don't pay your men. Say, there are boys of mine earning £40 a week, and hundreds earning a guaranteed £20 per week. You've got the talent over here, and pay it two and three quid and expect results."

I suggested tentatively something about heavy and elderly women. "What's an elderly woman?" said the Beauty King. "All women, flappers and the rest, go in for treatment,"—he smiled reminiscently—"and they pay for it."

"Five hours at a stretch the American women spend, and they come out set back anything up to ten pounds. Do they mind? Look at their happy faces."

SOLICITOR'S REMARKABLE
"LAST LETTER."

TRAGIC SMILE.

References to "the bottommost pit of Hades" and to mental agony hidden under "a mask of sheer indifference" were made in an extraordinary letter written by Mr. Emrys Lloyd, aged thirty-five, a solicitor, of Coram-street, Bloomsbury, who was found dead from coal gas poisoning in a room which he had engaged in Warwick-street, Pimlico.

The letter was read at the inquest held by Mr. Ingleby Oddie, the Westminster coroner.

Mr. W. Bellamy, a solicitor, of Walter House, Strand, said that Mr. Lloyd had been an assistant solicitor in his employment since last February. He had the highest references from the solicitor in whose employment he had been at Barry Docks, and he lived up to those references and was highly satisfactory. Had he lived he would have been a credit to his profession and a brilliant advocate.

"The Upper Hand."

The letter, which was written to Mr. Bellamy, was read by the coroner as follows:—

"Dear Mr. Bellamy,—I am seized with an uncontrollable impulse that comes to me more or less successfully, but this time it has got the upper hand.

"I often smile and appear light-hearted, but am often hiding a sensation of being at the bottommost pit of Hades.

"My appearance in court often agitates me when I may appear to be at ease. The strain of keeping such control has made me present a mask of sheer indifference.

"The result of my condition is that I am always dissatisfied with the way I do my work, and usually dissatisfied with whatever environment I find myself in.

"I seized on change of surroundings and work as a relief which, when accomplished, appeared illusive. That is why I changed from South Wales. There I was quite successful as an advocate. I made more money than with you. In seeking the change I did not then realise, as now I do, that what I deeply desire is to escape from myself.

"Death alone can give this. If there is no hereafter, then it will be the Nirvana of forgetfulness, I hunger for. If there is a hereafter, then I feel that an all-knowing God will redress the unfair balance of my worldly personality and equip me more equitably in the life to come.

"To you I offer my deepest apologies for what I am about to do. You have been so kind and considerate that I feel I should first have given you notice and completely severed my connection with you before carrying out my intention, but the irony of the situation is that before my notice could have expired what now appears to me to be immediately and urgently necessary would have become stupidly unreal and unnecessary.

"Nerves Punished."

"I have no financial worries. I have not been blackmailed, or anything like that. My only trouble is I have an excruciating personality which regularly punishes my nerves terribly, so that my heart gives me trouble.

"I do not sleep, and my brain becomes temporarily clouded and incompetent. I have regularly pressed the desire to purchase forgetfulness in intoxication.

"In this I have succeeded, but I fear if I live I would slowly degenerate into a sot, as I often have great difficulty in overcoming the desire to raise temporarily my spirit by drinking something potent.

"Drug addiction would seem to be my destiny if I lived to suffer an increase in my emotional disturbances.

"To yourself and Mrs. Bellamy my best wishes and kindest regards, and in the hope that you will forgive the step I now take.

"Sometimes, when my eyes have been rather puffy, I have noticed you glance at me curiously, and have felt that you considered I had been drinking the night before. This never was so. One of my legacies of war exposure was nephritis and kidney worked very imperfectly, creating a state of puffiness—insipient dropsy—which passed off in a day or so. I am of opinion that the state of my kidneys poisoning my blood stream and releasing much valuable albumen has contributed largely to my instability.

"As business is fairly quiet, I hope I am not inconveniencing you by the action I have taken."

A verdict of "Suicide while of unsound mind" was recorded.

PATIENT WITH "MELANCHOLIA."

DOCTOR'S INSPECTION OF A NURSING HOME.

UNCERTIFIED HOUSE.

Summonses alleging that Mr. Robert Gowan and Mrs. Jessie Gowan, of North Side, Clapham Common, unlawfully received for payment to board in an unlicensed house certain persons alleged to be lunatics were heard at the South Western Police Court recently and adjourned.

Mr. Edmund O'Connor, defending, said that his clients both pleaded not guilty.

Mr. Gerald Dodson prosecuting, said that Mr. and Mrs. Gowan were summoned in five instances. They carried on a nursing home, which was a perfectly respectable and reasonably conducted house.

New Act.

"This matter came to light," said Mr. Dodson, "because they applied to the London County Council for a certificate under the new Act requiring certification of nursing homes. That brought about a visit to see whether the certificate should be granted. It was admitted that two of the patients at least were persons of feeble intellect."

Mr. Dodson added that Dr. Worth, medical superintendent at Springfield Mental Hospital, Tooting, was sent to inspect the cases, and he expressed the opinion that all five were lunatics. The house was not licensed under the Act.

Mr. O'Connor said that it was disputed that the five persons were lunatics.

Mr. Worth, in evidence, said in cross-examination by Mr. O'Connor that the question of a person of unsound mind was one about which there could be a good deal of diversity of opinion.

A Grievance.

Dr. Worth said, referring to one of the five patients, that he thought that it was a type of case he should advise to be kept under close supervision. In his opinion, this patient, a woman, was suffering from melancholia, and her condition was such as the law should have knowledge of.

Dr. Worth said that another patient thought that she heard voices.

Mr. O'Connor: Did she tell you that she had a grievance because she could not go out to look at shop windows?—Yes.

You would not regard that as insanity in a woman?—No.

Dr. Worth said that he knew Sir Robert Armstrong Jones, who was a man of great experience on lunacy. He did not know that he had been visiting these particular patients, but he understood that he had visited certain patients at the home at some period.

CHINA AND JAPAN.

TREATY REVISION NEGOTIATIONS.

[United Press.]

The Japanese Minister to China, Mr. K. Yoshizawa, is about to begin negotiations with the Chinese Foreign Minister, Dr. C. T. Wang, for the proposed revision of the Sino-Japanese Commercial Treaty.

Wide Differences.

Mr. Yoshizawa will arrive in Shanghai about July 9 or 10 and will begin negotiations with the Chinese Foreign Minister at once.

It is said, Dr. Wang, according to the same unofficial Japanese report, handed a memorandum to Mr. Yoshizawa in Nanking last month outlining roughly the Chinese attitude in the treaty-revision question. This memorandum contains some 20 articles, and is reported widely at variance with what the Japanese Minister is prepared to concede.

Unofficial circles in Tokyo are frank in their belief that the negotiations will be most difficult and protracted, and they are not over- sanguine of success in the first, or even the second effort. Eventually, it is believed, there must be a compromise between the Chinese and the Japanese viewpoint.

Navigation Rights.

The principal points of the Chinese programme, according to the unofficial information available in Tokyo, are: First, Japanese recognition of the Chinese tariff; second, Japan will agree to the abolition of extra-territorial rights enjoyed by her nationals resident in China under the old commercial treaty; all Japanese residing in China shall be subject to Chinese law, without exception; and third, the right of navigation on the waters of rivers in China shall be based on the principle of reciprocity.

No confirmation of the reported Chinese programme can be obtained, but well-informed sources believe it substantially correct. In connection with the general Chinese attitude towards extra-territoriality, there have been repeated rumours about a threatened unilateral announcement on the part of the Chinese Government. These rumours are not taken seriously by diplomats, however.

PILOT'S ERROR OF JUDGMENT.

"ROLL" TOO NEAR THE GROUND.

NORTHOLT CRASH INQUEST.

Within half-a-mile of the spot where the previous afternoon he was killed while piloting an aeroplane, an inquest was held at Northolt Aerodrome, "Middlesex, on Flying Officer John Walden Bayes (24), of No. 19 Fighting Squadron, Duxford.

Flying Officer Bayes was one of the twenty-four selected pilots who were competing in an aerobatic display for the honour of appearing in the R.A.F. annual display at Hendon on July 13.

Burst into Flames.

Squadron Leader Robert Stanley Aitken, commanding the Northolt station, said: "Two Siskins were taking part in the competitions and I noticed one machine attempt to perform an evolution which I anticipated was to be a slow roll. The pilot rolled the machine on its back at a height of about 400ft.

When on its back the engine stopped and he had not sufficient speed to complete the evolution nor sufficient height to recover himself completely by 'diving'. The aeroplane struck the ground and burst into flames.

"I am of opinion that the accident was caused by the officer attempting to perform an evolution at too slow a speed for the height at which he was flying. It would, therefore, seem to be an error of judgment on the part of the pilot."

John Gerald Russell, a Flight Lieutenant in the R.A.F. Medical Service, said that after the fire tender had overcome the flames, the occupant of the machine was extricated dead.

The West Middlesex Coroner Dr. (Crown) recorded a verdict of accidental death.

The Best Dance Tunes Ever!!

That's what you'll say when you've listened to a few of these new Victor dance records for June. They're all got "it" . . . just the kind of "it" you like. Some are fast and peppy! Some are slow and rhythmic! Some are just plain low-down mean! Whatever type of dance music you like you'll be able to find it on these snappy new Victor records. . . . And be sure you notice the orchestra! . . . They're all the very best in the game . . . The ones you read about! Play some of these records and you'll be convinced that they know their stuff. We would be glad to play for you whatever of these selections especially attract you. Come in and let us do this!

ANARCHIST DEPORTED.

"RECOMMENDED AS A GOOD MILITANT COMRADE."

Karl Gunnar Bergstrom, aged thirty-three, of Highgate-road, who was stated to be a political refugee from Sweden, was accused at Marlborough-street Police Court of failing as an alien to comply with the conditions attached to his landing in the United Kingdom.

Mr. Herbert Muskett, for the prosecution, said that Bergstrom had been convicted of different offences in Sweden, and only in January last was sentenced in Paris to four months' imprisonment for an offence against the alien laws.

Expelled From France.

Bergstrom when arrested by Detective Inspector Clancy was found to be in possession of a certificate issued by the General

Council of the Working Syndicalist

Revolutionary Movement, Paris, to the effect that "Comrade Bergstrom" had been expelled from France, and was recommended "to all good syndicalist anarchist comrades as a good militant comrade." A letter was also found on him requesting some one in England "to do all that is necessary to help Comrade Bergstrom in view of his anti-militarist past."

Mr. Mead, the magistrate, said during the hearing that Bergstrom professed to be an anarchist.

Mr. Ernest Williams, defending, replied that anarchism was a political faith; it was an extreme form of Liberalism.

Mr. Mead: I do not think

Liberalism would thank you for that, on the eve of an election. I do not know what Mr. Lloyd George would say to that.

Mr. Mead made an order recommending Bergstrom's deportation, which meant that he would go to prison until the Home Secretary could make arrangements for his departure.

CRY OF CANTON'S
CATTLE KILLERS.THREAT TO DOWN KNIVES AND POLE-AXES.OBJECTION TO MUNICIPAL ABBATOIRS.

[FROM OUR CHINESE CORRESPONDENT.]

CANTON, July 1.

The cattle killers of Canton have decided to strike to-day as a protest against the Government edict that on and after July 1 all slaughtering of cattle must in the interests of sanitation be done in the newly constructed abattoirs. Heretofore all slaughtering has been done in private establishments scattered over the city. Proper supervision was impossible and very often diseased cattle were slaughtered and secretly sold for human consumption. The Government regulations governing slaughter houses were violated, notwithstanding the efforts of the Government Agents and the inflicting of heavy penalties for such offences. The money involved was large and if profits were injured by due regard for the sanitary aspect of the matter, so much the worse for the sanitary aspect.

The Government realised it was dealing with a matter of primary importance to the health of the community and in conflict with strong private interests. The Bureau of Public Health have, however, built three abattoirs, one in Honam and two in Canton proper. They were completed some time ago, and it was decided that they should be opened to-day. The owners of the abattoirs received a franchise from the Government for a period of ten years, on the understanding that they would become public property at the end of that time. The present operators and owners of these places will enjoy a monopoly of the business during this period.

"WE WANT SIX!"

But to all these Government arrangements the cattle killers are offering an implacable resistance. Their first objection is that the number of abattoirs is far too few for a city the size of Canton. Their demand is six, 2 in Honam and 4 in Canton proper. They point out that there are over 300 shops dealing exclusively with pork and the number of pigs slaughtered each day is about 1,000. Some 15 places are licensed for the slaughter of cows and buffaloes but only about a dozen are killed daily. In addition there are the mutton and goat's meat dealers. Some 70 sheep and goats are killed daily for Canton's mutton supply. In view of the proportions of the business they contend that three abattoirs is not nearly enough. "Canton is a big city," they argue, "and great difficulty will be experienced in bringing cattle to the nearest abattoir. We will have to march our herds for miles and carry their carcasses just as far to get them sold. Moreover, every one will be wanting to have their animals slaughtered first, and fighting and wrangling will ensue."

Another objection is that the prices demanded by the proprietors of the abattoirs are unreasonable, the following being the tariff:—1 big hog, 50 cents; 1 medium sized hog, 40 cents; 1 porker, 20 cents; 1 cow, $1; and for each sheep or goat, 50 cents. The cattle owners say that these prices should be drastically cut down.

All the butchers in Canton are to-day appealing to the Government for help. They say that unless their demands are at least partially granted, they will close up their shops and go on strike. They say that such a strike would involve over 11,000 men, for such is the size of Canton's army of butchers.

The cattle tax farmers are equally worried about the crisis for a strike would mean a heavy loss for them. They are appealing to the Government to effect some sort of settlement before it is too late. They are also trying to persuade the cattle killers to continue their good work.

NO STRIKE YET.

According to a reliable source, no strike was declared by the butchers in Canton yesterday, but they raised prices considerably.

ELECTROCUTION TRAGEDY.DISTRESSING INCIDENT AT CHINESE HOUSE.

The palatial Chinese residence at the junction of Matheson Street and Leighton Hill Road was the scene of a distressing incident yesterday morning, when a Chinese cook, employed at the house, was electrocuted.

The unfortunate man, it is learned, was hanging out some clothes to dry from a window overlooking the garden, when he came in contact with a "live" wire. From the fact that he was hanging out clothes to dry, it is assumed that his hands were wet, which probably acted as a conductor of the current and intensified the shock of the charge.

The electrocuted man was heard to shout "Save life" several times, but when help arrived, he was beyond assistance. The ambulance was summoned, but as life was extinct, the body was taken straight to the mortuary.

AN "IRONSIDE" OFFICER.

HIS MISSION TO CANTON.

[FROM OUR CHINESE CORRESPONDENT.]

CANTON, July 1.

General Mow Piu Nam, the former commander of the "Iron Sides," who returned to Canton a few days ago, is still here conferring with Generals Chen Ming Shu and Chen Tsai Tong on "matters of vital importance." The General is staying at Tungshan at the private house of a certain Mr. Chow. He seldom goes out, and is rarely in the streets. Yesterday he was feted by the two big Chens in a big flowery boat on the Pearl River off Tungshan. A number of Canton's notables, including Admiral Chen Chak were present at the banquet. In spite of all the reports to the contrary, the former Commander of the "Iron Sides" appears to be well received in official circles here.

It is stated that General Mow was sent to Canton by General Chang Fat Fui, Commander of the 4th Division (the "Iron Sides"). His mission to Canton, as far as the writer has been able to ascertain, is to arrange with the local Government to take over the pro-Kwangsi troops under Wan Yin Kiu and Li Mo Tze, who are about to surrender to the Canton Government. What General Chang Fat Fui wanted was to get the Hsu King Tong remnants and incorporate them with the 4th Division. It is understood that the Commander of the "Iron Sides" has obtained Nan-king's consent to this.

CANTON-KOWLOON RAILWAY.SATISFACTORY YEAR'S WORKING.

[FROM OUR CHINESE CORRESPONDENT.]

CANTON, July 1.

The Canton-Kowloon Railway cleared a good margin of profit last year, according to an official statement of accounts made public to-day. The total business transacted during the year amounted to $890,904.90, and the total expenses, $890,954.17, a net profit of $89,040.73. This, according to the authorities was better than it has been for the past five years. The number of through tickets sold by the British section, exclusive of those for traveling between Kowloon and Shumchun, was 309,917, and the number sold by the Chinese section, excluding those for traveling between Canton and Shumchun, was 438,080.

The number of mishaps last year was also less than in previous years. There were two fires and 3 accidents due to the train leaving the track, but none were very serious. One passenger was killed and 2 injured. Three persons were run over and killed and one injured.

THE WATER
SHORTAGE.YESTERDAY'S RAIN .36
OF AN INCH.

Yesterday's rainfall, as measured by the Royal Observatory, Kowloon, was only 0.36 of an inch.

The weather forecast for to-day is, "winds moderate, cloudy, some showers."

The heavy clouds were again disappointing and the amount that fell, though helpful to the Kowloon system is hardly enough to make any appreciable difference to the Island Reservoirs.

2,700 Tons Imported.

Yesterday's arrivals of water were:—

	Tons.
S.S. Tjilboet (J.C.C.L.)	900
S.S. Fu Kwong (A.P.C.)	1,000
From Holt's Wharf (steam- or uncertain)	300
Empress of Asia	400
President Jackson	100
Total	2,700

The Contracts Committee.

A Government "Gazette" Extraordinary, of yesterday's date, announces that H.E. the Governor has created an executive authority to assist the Government in arranging the importation of water from outside sources. His Excellency has appointed Mr. S. T. Williamson to be Controller of Imported Water Supplies, and Mr. Williamson working with a Consultative Committee consisting of Mr. R. Sutherland, O.B.E., Mr. W. G. Goggin, and Mr. J. M. McHutchon, will have authority under the Government to undertake steps connected with contracts, insurance, chartering of vessels, and other financial commitments.

New Premises.

The Water Emergency Committee, or rather the organisation responsible for the arranging of supplies from outside the Colony and for the handling of these supplies, and all business connected with it moved to the offices in the first floor of the Post Office Building yesterday, from their old quarters in the Government Offices in Lower Albert Road. Their telephone number is C. 2327 and Govt. 294.

To-day's Restrictions.

Starting from to-day the water supply to Victoria and to the high level districts will be cut off except from:—

6 a.m. to 8 a.m.
6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

The supply to the Peak will be:—
Seymour Road (Eastern Section only), Barker Road, Magazine Gap and Wanchai Districts:— 6 to 8 a.m. and 4 to 5 p.m.

Remainder of the Peak:—
6 to 9 a.m.

A meeting of restaurant and tea-house proprietors was held during the week-end, when the effects of to-day's restrictions were fully discussed. The meeting was unanimous that the new regulations would impose a great handicap on this type of business and it was decided to appeal to the Secretary for Chinese Affairs and to the representatives of the Chinese community on the Legislative Council to urge the Government not to impose these restrictions.

A service will be held at the premises of the Lai Yin Association, Bonham Road, at seven o'clock to-morrow (Wednesday) morning by Chinese Christians to pray for rain. Any Chinese Christian will be welcomed at the service.

CANTON ELECTRIC COMPANY.

MANAGER RESIGNS.

Mr. Chow Tin Pong, the manager of the Electric Light & Power Company in Canton has resigned owing to the recent trouble with the staff of the Company. It is understood that either Mr. Tse Tak Kai, the chief engineer of the Electric Works, or Mr. Hsu Koon Ying, the magistrate of Shantak district, will be offered the post, but it is doubtful whether they will take it.

MAKING WUCHOW GOOD!

According to the vernacular Press, gambling has been strictly prohibited in Wuchow by order of General Yu Tsok Pak, the new Chairman of the Kwangsi Provincial Government. During the Kwangsi Clique regime gambling was prevalent and considerable revenue was collected from the gambling places. Since Wuchow was taken by the Nanking troops all bad practices have been forbidden.

SHOPLIFTER SENT TO PRISON.ATTEMPT TO VICTIMISE
STATIONER FAILS.POLICE RESERVIST COMMENDED.

Three Chinese fairly well dressed, and by no means of the coolie class, were concerned in a shoplifting incident on Saturday. Only one was arrested and he was sentenced at the Central Magistracy yesterday to a month's hard labour for the theft of a Waterman's fountain pen.

According to the evidence of a shopkeeper at No. 81, Des Vaux Road Central, the three men called and asked to be shown some fountain pens. A dozen Waterman's in a case were produced and placed at the customer's disposal. The three men gave the impression that the pens did not reach the standard which they expected and asked to be shown some more. The witness produced some "Eversharp" pens but when putting away the "Waterman's" noticed that whereas a dozen were handed to the customers only eleven were being returned.

Not wishing to create a scene, he asked the men quietly what had become of the remaining pen, but they merely expressed surprise at hearing that one pen was missing. Eventually they left the shop without making a purchase. The shopkeeper was not satisfied and with a foki, they shadowed the three young men. Eventually, they saw a pen changing hands and they seized the person who was handling it. A struggle ensued and the three men managed to run away, but the shopkeeper and his foki stuck to the person in possession of the pen, arresting him in Pottinger Street, with the assistance of a Police Reservist. The arrested man dropped his fountain pen, but this was recovered and was produced in Court.

After the defendant had been sentenced, Major C. Wilson, who heard the evidence, commended the Police Reservist, P.C.R. 68, for his action.

MORE ABOUT "THE GEISHA."[TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HONG KONG
DAILY PRESS."]—

Sir,—As one of your readers who has no axe to grind either against "J. Penn" or for the Philharmonic Society, I would like to tell "Fair Play" that he is much too sensitive. Personally, I think it absurd that a musical comedy forty years of age should be dragged off the shelf to provide us with winter amusement. Surely it is possible to find something less hackneyed than "The Geisha" to put on the boards! Is there nothing the Philharmonic Society can find which gives scope for originality—something to keep us wondering what the show will be like? We know just exactly what is going to happen when the curtain rises on "The Geisha" and most of us know all the tunes backward. Let the Philharmonic Society get its scouts busy and ask people going on home-leave to keep them posted on what is going on now, and let the old worn-out musical plays take a well-earned rest.—Yours, etc.,

MUSICAL PLAY.

SOUTH CHINA ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION.[TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HONG KONG
DAILY PRESS."]—

Sir,—In his address at the opening ceremony of the Bathing Shed of the South China Athletic Association on Saturday last Mr. Li Yau Tsun, the President of the Association, said that the South China Athletic Association was formed in 1916 and so on. This is not quite correct as the Association was founded in December 1912, as can be seen in my book "Soccer in China," page 29. A short history is also given in pages 27 and 29 of how the name "South China" had been derived.

The Association was first known as "The South China Recreation Club," later altered to "The South China Athletic Club" and again amended to its present title (see my book page 27, 28, 29, etc.).

TALE OF A MEDICINE MAN.MR. A. G. JAMES OF COLOMBO!

An Indian medicine hawker giving his name as Mr. A. G. James of Colombo, and living at 19, Shanghai Street, was before Mr. T. S. Whyte Smith, yesterday with failing to produce his licence on the Kowloon City Road and creating a disturbance and behaving in a disorderly manner. Defendant, who was dressed in European clothes and spoke English, admitted the first charge but denied the latter.

The Indian constable who arrested defendant told his Worship in evidence that he saw defendant hawking medicine and asked for his licence. Defendant failed to produce it and he was taken to the Police Station, and was subsequently allowed out on bail. Defendant followed witness back to his boat and abused and jeered at him, using very bad language. Witness again arrested defendant who put up a struggle. With the assistance of a Chinese detective defendant was returned to the Station.

Asked if he had anything to say, defendant said that the constables abused his position and attempted to obtain a free bottle of medicine. Defendant refused to give him one and he was arrested. On coming out of the Station the constable caught hold of him and asked him what he meant by telling the Sergeant on duty that he (the constable) had asked for a bottle of his medicine as a present, and began to worry him.

After hearing the evidence of the Chinese detective who said that he heard defendant swear in Chinese at the constable, his Worship remarked that the man would not have been re-arrested unless he had insulted the constable. He did not think it likely that the constable would want defendant's medicine.

His Worship imposed a fine of $2 for failing to produce his licence and a fine of $3 for creating a disturbance.

CULT OF THE NUDE AT KOWLOON.

A Chinese coolie was fined $5 by Mr. Whyte Smith for bathing without any clothes on in a pond on the Tai Po Road near the Police Training School. Lance Sergeant Cordeaux told his Worship that the offence occurred very often and that complaints had been made by Europeans passing in cars. In convicting the defendant the Magistrate remarked that as a man of 33 he should have known better.

M.C.L. FETE TO BE CANCELLED.A WATER SHORTAGE REACTION.

For several years now a very popular event in the autumn has been the fete and fair arranged by the Hong Kong Women's Guild and Ministering Children's League.

For two years it has been held in Lee Gardens and, thanks to the widespread support of the whole community, a very satisfactory sum has been raised in the cause of charity.

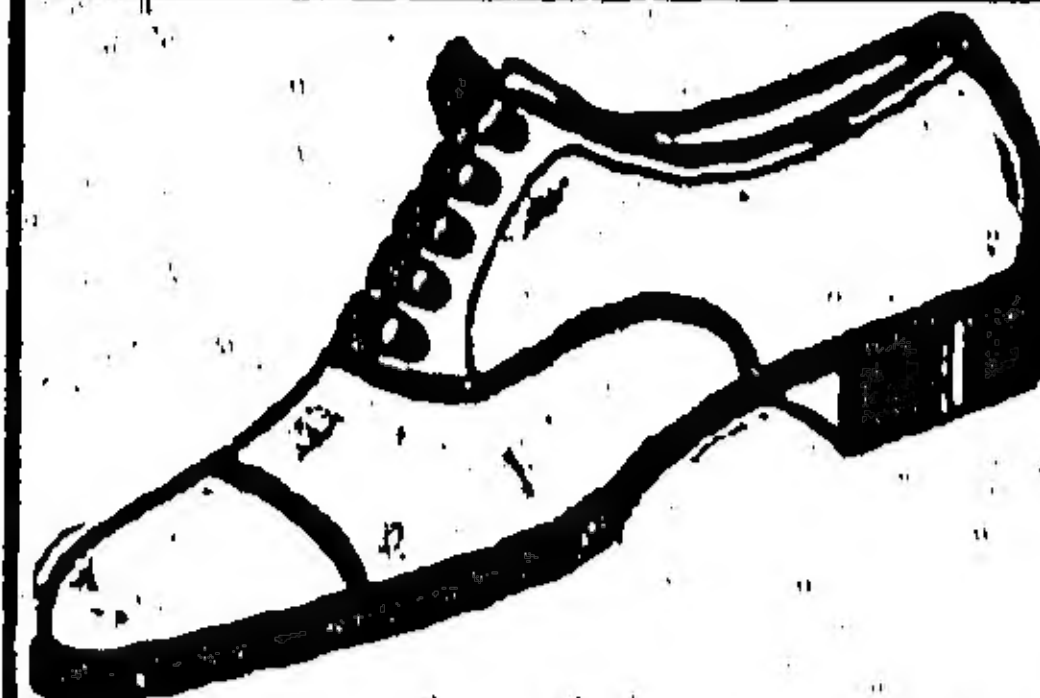

Many people will therefore hear with regret that the event will not take place this year for reasons set out in the following letter which the President, Mrs. W. T. Southorn has sent to branch secretaries of the M.C.L.:—

I regret to say that owing to a combination of unfortunate circumstances I fear the proposed fair, in aid of our funds which we planned for November 1 and 2 cannot take place. Our energetic Vice-President, Mrs. Cressy, has been seriously ill and is forbidden to do active work for several months. I am obliged to leave for home early in August owing to my mother's illness. In addition the water shortage occupies the thoughts and energies of a large number of our helpers. We feel sure you will see the wisdom of cancelling the fair and we trust that each branch will assist us by small efforts during the autumn.

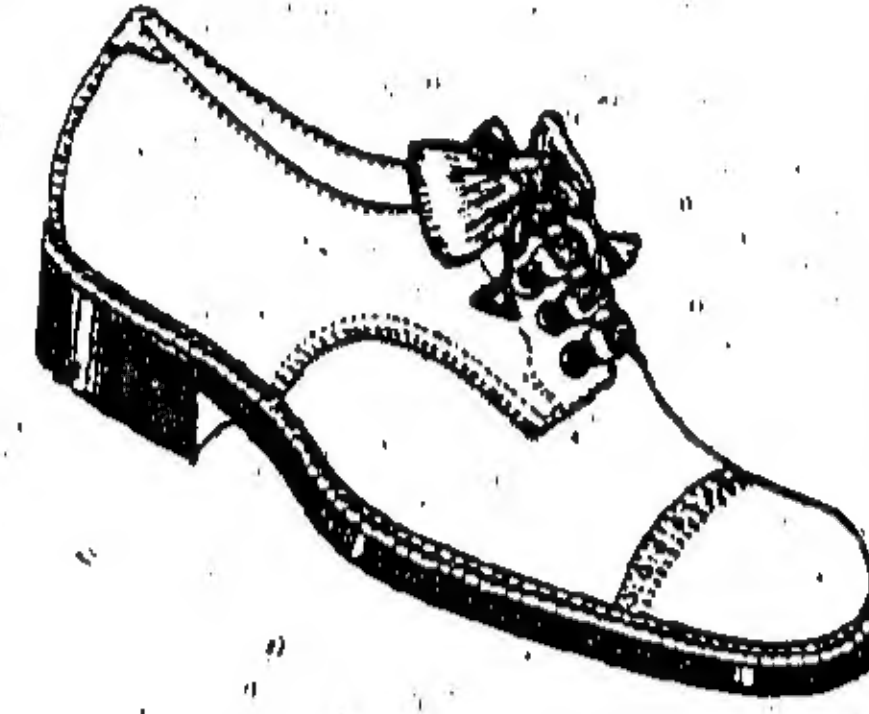

We hope it may be possible to meet again next year. Believe me, yours sincerely,
Bella Southorn,
President.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES.

Well over a quarter-million dollars was called for and voted last week in the form of additional appropriations to balance the estimated and actual expenditure of the Colony for last year. Details of the accounts have been published, together with "explanatory remarks" dealing with the increased or decreased items of expenditure set forth. These marginal notes have been drafted with meticulous care. For example, the fact that fees actually received by the Harbour Department for Board of Trade examinations did not come up to the amount estimated is solemnly explained in the margin as due to the circumstances that "fewer candidates sat for examination." Similarly, we note that in various Departments the estimated expenditure upon libraries has not been wholly laid out. In the margin we find the terse explanation: "Fewer books purchased." Contrariwise, we find the police have spent more on disinfectants than the sum originally estimated; the "explanatory remark" in the margin reveals the astounding cause of this extra expenditure—"more disinfectant required." Then we find that although the police were granted $800 to spend on telegrams, only $449 has been actually expended. The reason—again according to the marginal note of explanation—is that fewer telegrams were sent! In such manner is it made crystal clear to the inquirer how it comes about that the sums originally estimated do not always agree with the amounts actually and subsequently spent.

The additional appropriations called for concern ten different Departments. A bonus to H.E. the Governor's private secretary and acting pay of the Officer Administering the Government explains an increase of $6,732 (against which $1,436 has been provisionally voted). In the Senior Clerical Service there is a deficit on wages amount of $9,694. Another nine thousand dollars is wanted in the Colonial Secretary's Office, where $10,000 has been spent on steel filing-cabinets. The Treasury is able to show a balance on the right side, and the Audit Department needs only a modest $2,000 extra for wages—"personal emoluments"—due to new but unspecified appointments. The Post Office shows an actual expenditure $30,000 below the estimated figure, and the Imports and Exports Office comes out $58,000 on the right side, mainly due to its opium business. The expenditure of the Harbour Department is $101,000 within the estimate, but this is largely explained by work contemplated not being done, or postponed, being postponed. In the Supreme Court the estimated expenditure on the library was $900; the actual amount spent was $704; the mystery is explained in the margin—"fewer books purchased." Ten thousand dollars was voted for watchmen, but less than seven thousand was spent—"fewer watchmen employed," says the marginal explanatory note. The legal expenses of the Crown Solicitor were ten thousand dollars in excess of the estimate, thanks to the famous case of REX v. CARVALHO YEO. The magnificent sum of $150 voted to purchase books and periodicals for the Bacteriological Institute of the Medical Department has not been exhausted during the year; a balance of $33 remains unspent—"fewer books."

In some cases, however, the column devoted to "explanatory remarks" is painfully uninformative, hence Mr. BRAGA's comments last week at the Legislative Council meeting. Actual expenditure, as compared with estimated outlay, on quite a number of public works in Kowloon is well below the sum originally allowed for, but there are no marginal notes of explanation. Maintenance of and improvements to public buildings cost $10,000 less than was estimated; maintenance of and improvements to roads and bridges show a "saving"; gas and electric lighting cost much less than was expected, but no explanation appears in the margin.

Mr. BRAGA wanted to know how these "economies" were effected, and as a result of his questions the fact was revealed that certain street lamps were not in operation until the middle of the year. It was denied that there had been any stinting of illumination of the public roads, but Mr. BRAGA was not altogether convinced by the official assurances given—nor, we imagine, will members of the Kowloon Residents' Association be completely satisfied. In Hong Kong gas and electric lighting costs $140,000; for Kowloon and New Kowloon the bill comes to less than $80,000 per annum. True, Hong Kong at night is a wonderful picture—one of the most fascinating spectacles the round-the-world tourist sees on his travels. The Kowloon resident will not dispute the fact, but he has good reason to doubt whether many parts of his own district are as well-lit as they should be.

News and Views.

Viscount Minoru Saito, former Governor-General of Korea and chief delegate of the Japanese Imperial Government to the Three Power Naval Conference at Geneva in 1927, has been elected President of the Japan-Russia Society in Tokyo. Mr. TROYANOVSKY, Russian Ambassador in Tokyo, attended the ceremony.

Chief Preventive Officer Clarke and a party of Revenue Officers raided a junk over the week-end and made a valuable capture of 2,300 gallons of spirits of wine, which is believed to have been brought to the Colony from Macao. A large number of dutiable cigarettes were also found on the junk. Several arrests have been made.

Mr. V. F. VICARIE has passed the final examination of the Society of Incorporated Accountants and Auditors, held in May. Mr. VICARIE left Hong Kong for England after graduating as a Bachelor of Arts, Commercial Department, in the Hong Kong University, in December, 1925. Mr. VICARIE has a wide circle of friends in Hong Kong who will be pleased to learn of his latest success.

Certain alterations to the rules of the Kowloon Golf Club were made yesterday afternoon when an extraordinary general meeting of members was held. The effect of the alterations is that in future the annual meeting will coincide with the beginning of the golfing season (August) so that a new Committee and Captain will be elected at the start of the season. Another rule amended yesterday calls for fifteen members of the committee for an extraordinary meeting, whereas originally the rules required thirty. Mr. J. H. HUNT accepted the Captaincy at yesterday's meeting.

The University authorities are making a determined effort to rid Oxford of the cocktail. Every few nights the popular bars are raided and the students routed back to college. The epicures are attempting to revise sherry drinking.

The first live birds of paradise ever seen in England have just arrived from New Guinea and are safely installed in London at the Zoological Gardens. They are the rare six-plumed birds of paradise, and after years of search two have been obtained for the London Zoo. Save for the silvery six-plumed head cushion they are velvety black with a metallic-hued shield of green, bronze and blue on their breasts.

Chandos Arms, England's oldest tavern, is now a motor-coach booking-office and may soon be made into a garage. This old inn, which dates from the days of the Norman conquest, recently ended its career as a tavern and upon it were plastered the lurid posters of motor-tour organizations. It is situated at Edgware, near London. Its lovely old gables and quaint stable-yard are much admired by lovers of history. It is said to have been a favourite haunt of Dick Turpin, and Handel is said to have met a friend there who inspired him to write one of his best compositions. Like all old inns, it has its ghost.

Hawaiian Live Stock.

Hawaii's livestock industry is now valued at about $12,000,000, according to a survey just completed by Prof. L. A. Henke, of the University of Hawaii. The survey gives the census of livestock as follows: 15,000 horses, 9,000 mules, 130,000 beef cattle, 10,000 dairy cattle, 27,000 sheep and 28,000 swine. Products marketed annually amount to more than $5,000,000. Roughly one-third of the area of Hawaii is devoted to livestock, or about six times as great an area as sugar cane. Much of the land, however, has limited grazing value. Hawaii imports large quantities of meat, much of which comes from New Zealand. A little more than 4,000,000 pounds was imported from New Zealand in 1925.

The "Davis Cup" Donor.

Mr. DWIGHT FILLEY DAVIS, new Governor General of the Philippines, arrived in Yokohama last week on the Dollar liner President Taft, from Seattle, and was met by Mr. Edwin Neville, the United States Charge d'Affaires. The Governor-General attended a series of exhibition tennis matches on the courts of the Tokyo Lawn Tennis Club. Mr. Davis is widely and favourably known to Japanese because of his patronage of tennis and the Davis Cup, which he gave to encourage international tennis matches. Tennis is probably the most popular sport in Japan, after baseball, and Mr. Davis is possibly better known as a tennis patron than as the former Secretary of War in the Cabinet of President Coolidge.

A Missing Consul.

Sometimes the people of Hawaii get mad, and sometimes they laugh, when other good American citizens think Hawaii is a foreign land. It has been estimated by a retired detective that at least a dozen successes are made by the confidence trick men every tourist season, but only one or two cases reach the magistrates because the victim is bogged in a hurry and does not want to wait for the case and spoil his holiday when there is no chance of getting his money back. Also many victims would rather do anything than prosecute and have their innocence exposed to their club-mates at home, let alone their wives (women, it may be noted, never seem to be victimized by confidence trick women). The common belief is that the victim is usually lunched or dined very well by the tricksters before they begin serious work, but that is by no means the case. Again and again it has come out in Court that all the refreshments taken together were in tea-shops. The confidence trick men seem to use very little finesse. There was a case not long ago where an American lost $470. One incident in the trick was that a man came up to the first trickster and the American in the Strand and, holding out an envelope, inquired where "could get it registered." The envelope was addressed to "The Pope at Rome." Even that did not spoil the trick.

Safeguarding for the Betting Man.

The Racecourse Betting Control Board in England has evolved a most ingenious scheme for the safety of backers of horses making use of the totalisator system of betting. In order to make it unnecessary for the public who patronise the racecourse to carry large sums of ready money about with them which other frequenters of racecourses might steal, it has been arranged that the official bankers to the Board shall issue vouchers in books of ten, each voucher representing a unit of either 2s., 10s., £1, £10, or £100. All the betting man has to do is to ask his bank to furnish him with as many books of vouchers as he requires, and these his bank obtains from the Board's bankers. On making his bet the backer will tear out of his coupon-book the number of coupons that correctly represent the value of his investment and hand these in at one of the receiving offices of the totalisator. If the backer wins he will not need immediately to present himself at the paying office window and draw his money. The winning voucher will be marked with the amount he is due to receive, and this will be automatically credited to his account at his bank by payment through the Board's official bankers in much the same way as his cheques are cleared through the Bankers' Clearing-house. Should the backer need more money he can obtain further books of coupons from the Board's bankers, who will have a branch on each course. No money will be handed out by the bankers, so the betting public cannot be tempted to deal with the book-makers.

Secret Aeroplane.

The Prince of Wales has consented to be a Patron of the International Aero Exhibition to be held at Olympia, London, in July, and he will formally open the exhibition. A close-kept secret of the Air Ministry will be revealed to the public at this exhibition in the shape of a small aeroplane which has been specially built to fit into a submarine. For many years experiments have been made in order to perfect such a machine and to evolve a method of carrying it on the submarine without greatly altering the construction of the craft. The machine that will be seen at the exhibition is the outcome of these experiments, and it is the most modern development of the science of war. The great advantage of this method of carrying aeroplanes is that they can be transported to any desired spot with complete secrecy, and will thus be able to render valuable co-operation with the Fleet. Many other machines which have been kept secret by the Air Ministry will also be seen at Olympia. Side by side with these will be modern civil machines of every type, from small two-seaters to enormous air liners capable of seating over twenty people. Another striking feature of the exhibition is the interest shown in it not only by aircraft constructors and manufacturers of nearly every country in the world, but also by the Governments of various important countries. Foreign Governments have followed the lead given by the British Air Ministry, and they are arranging national exhibits, Austria, Belgium, France, Germany, Italy, and Sweden are already represented by composite exhibits, and negotiations are being carried on with other countries.

The Old-Fashioned Confidence Men.

Sir CHARLES BIRN at Bow Street recently expressed astonishment that the latest victim of the confidence trick men, two of whom he sentenced to three months hard labour, should have been a Wall Street stockbroker. But the same thing has happened so often with business men from the United States and the Dominions that one is surprised that the Magistrate did not take it as a matter of course. The two confidence trick men's only defence was that the American had "asked for it" as he was so strikingly dressed, and when they met him he was telling the whole world how much money he had got. They had not made any special effort. They had just told him the old story about inheriting hundreds of thousands of pounds on condition that nine thousands were given away to the poor in America. The American had apparently never heard of this old, old trick, although no doubt he knew all about the gold brick-men of New York. It has been estimated by a retired detective that at least a dozen successes are made by the confidence trick men every tourist season, but only one or two cases reach the magistrates because the victim is bogged in a hurry and does not want to wait for the case and spoil his holiday when there is no chance of getting his money back. Also many victims would rather do anything than prosecute and have their innocence exposed to their club-mates at home, let alone their wives (women, it may be noted, never seem to be victimized by confidence trick women). The common belief is that the victim is usually lunched or dined very well by the tricksters before they begin serious work, but that is by no means the case. Again and again it has come out in Court that all the refreshments taken together were in tea-shops. The confidence trick men seem to use very little finesse. There was a case not long ago where an American lost $470. One incident in the trick was that a man came up to the first trickster and the American in the Strand and, holding out an envelope, inquired where "could get it registered." The envelope was addressed to "The Pope at Rome." Even that did not spoil the trick.

Arriving at Tilbury.

The new landing stage being erected at Tilbury is nearing completion. The last of the four sections of which it is composed has been floated into position. When completed and in working order it will add greatly to the traffic facilities of the Thames, as it will enable ocean liners to go alongside for the discharge both of cargo and the landing of passengers. At present there are only two methods of doing this—that is, either by waiting until the vessel can be docked, or employing lighters and tugs for discharging. All this will be avoided when the staging is completed and in working order. The mooring of the four sections was a task of no small difficulty, as the tide and the swell of the river had both to be contended with. The landing stage will be approached by five bridges erected at different levels. Two of these will be elevated for vehicular traffic with the shore. These, too, have been constructed and floated into position and are anchored to the stage, which rises and falls with the tide. The total length of the stage is 1,150 ft. The constructional steel involved in the work weighs 5,600 tons and the value of the contract is $350,000. The work will be completed this month, but it is not expected that liners will be able to use it until about the end of the year. It is nearly three years since the work was begun. So great is the traffic in the river that it is believed it will eventually become necessary to add to the length of the stage, so as to enable two large vessels to draw alongside and be discharged at the same time. The great saving in the discharging of vessels, it is thought, will eventually lead to the enlargement of the stage.

Looking Back 25 Years.

The past few days have been bad for bowls. In the first place, men who take their exercise in carpet shippers—with a cup of tea and a little cake at each spell—do not like rain, and bowls, moreover, absolutely refuse to roll across a wet surface. It is remarkable, however, what a little time it takes for the rain to percolate through the turf into the sandy soil beneath it at the Kowloon Club's green. The Civil Service C.C. has challenged the Kowloon Bowling Green Club, and the contest is arranged to take place at Kowloon this afternoon. The two C.S.C.C. teams are as follows:—A. Gibson (skip), W. Brand, J. Reidie, and L. E. Brett; J. Macdonald (skip), O. Melver, W. K. Wooley, and R. Duncum. Reserves: J. Smith and F. Robins. [Hong Kong Daily Press, July 2, 1904.]

Looking Back 50 Years.

The Chinese love for dubbing people with nicknames may, in certain cases, be considered excusable, especially as it frequently happens they are witty and characteristic, but when they take upon themselves to speak of a highly respected official of the Government—as the late Mr. (drunken cat) such coarse abuse ought to receive a check. [Hong Kong Daily Press, July 2, 1879.]

BRITAIN AND CHINA.

IMPORTANT NAVAL AGREEMENT.

TO HELP TO DEVELOP CHINA'S FLEET.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

NANKING, July 1. A Sino-British Agreement has been signed providing for the training of Chinese naval cadets in Britain, and the engagement by the Chinese Government of a British Naval Mission to assist in the development of the Chinese Navy.

It is understood the Chinese Government has a comprehensive programme of building a substantial Navy, with the intention that some of the vessels will be constructed by Great Britain.

CHINESE COURT PROCEDURE.

WANG CHUNG HUI'S OPINION.

[“D.P.” Special Service.]

New York, July 1. Wang Chung Hui, eminent Chinese jurist, called on the Maurel today.

He said a simplification in Chinese court procedure could be effected, given modern and efficient courts.

YEN HSI SHAN.

STILL NEGOTIATING.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

PEKING, July 1. Yen Hsi Shan has not yet left for Taiyuan, and members of Chiang Kai Shek's entourage declare that Yen Hsi Shan has given up his intention of going abroad.

On the contrary, Shan's officials state that this is without justification. Yen Hsi Shan still intends to depart for Japan on July 5.

However it seems the last word has not yet been said, as Ho Cheng Chun was closeted at Yen's house all this morning carrying on negotiations, while Yen's special train waits with steam up to carry him to Taiyuan for the purpose of fetching Feng Yu Hsiang.

WHAT YEN TOLD CHIANG KAI SHEK.

(Nan Chung Kuo.)

It is averred that Yen told Chiang at their recent interview that Feng Yu Hsiang has definitely decided to go abroad and he has instructed the various Generals of the Kuomintang to obey the Central Government. The affairs of the North-West Provinces were not discussed during the interview.

FENG'S NEW JOB!

(Wah Tse Yat Pao.)

SHANGHAI, July 1. Feng Yu Hsiang's first destination will be Japan, and he and his party will later sail for Germany.

The Central Government, it is said, will soon confer the title upon him of Investigation Deputy of Industries.

Feng Yu Hsiang and Yen Hsi Shan have booked berths on a Japanese steamer and will leave Tangku for Moji on the 5th inst.

TIENTSIN CONCESSION.

BELGIAN RENDITION SUSPENDED

[NAN CHUNG KUO NEWS SERVICE.]

TIENTSIN, July 1. On account of ill-feeling aroused in connection with the Tientsin strike, which culminated in two Belgian officers of the company being hurt in a recent dispute, the negotiations for the retrocession of the Belgian Concession have been temporarily suspended.

JAPAN'S POLITICAL CRISIS.

OMINOUS CALM BEFORE THE STORM.

CABINET CONFERS.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

Tokyo, July 1.

There is a lack of any definite developments in the political situation during the past 36 hours, in strong contrast to the rapid developments of Saturday, but the calm is ominous of the coming storm, which is likely to break tomorrow in the form of the Cabinet resignation, when General Yamaguchi, Governor-General of Korea, Mr. Yamamoto, President of the South Manchuria Railway, and other high officials are likewise expected to quit their posts.

An urgent Cabinet conference is now sitting with the purpose of making final deliberations.

The meeting between Baron Tanaka and Mr. Tokonami yesterday is interpreted in some quarters as indicating the possibility of Baron Tanaka recommending Mr. Tokonami as his successor, on the understanding that the Seiyukai Party will give full support to the new Government; but it is generally believed that the meeting was merely for the purpose of arranging to co-operate in the future as Opposition parties.

Well-informed circles further assert that the Minseito Party will succeed to power, with Mr. Hamaguchi as Premier, Baron Shidehara as Foreign Minister and Admiral Takarabe as Minister for the Navy.

A Personal Optimist.

In the event of the Minseito Party forming a Government, General Ugaki is expected to succeed General Yamaguchi in Korea, though he may be given the War Office.

Persons closely in touch with the political situation believe that Baron Tanaka will resign the Presidency of the Seiyukai, and quit politics, though Tanaka himself is a perennial optimist whom nothing is able to disconcert.

He is reported to have remarked smilingly, "I am going now, but my turn will come again."

Resignation Report.

It is reliably learned that this morning's Cabinet conference resulted in a decision to resign en bloc.

Baron Tanaka will proceed to the Palace to-morrow morning to submit his resignation to the Throne.

New Commander in Kwangtung.

It is officially announced that Lieut.-General Hata has been installed Commander of the Japanese Garrison in Kwangtung in succession to Lieut.-General Murakami, who has resigned "at his own request."

Though the reason for Lieut.-General Murakami's resignation is not stated, it is understood to be due to his desire to take responsibility for the failure to take necessary precautions to prevent the Chang Tso Lin bomb outrage.

ENDURANCE ATTEMPT ABANDONED.

RE-FUELLING CAUSES TROUBLE.

[REUTER'S AMERICAN SERVICE.]

New York, July 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Jensen and Mr. William Ulbrich have abandoned their endurance flight attempt. They were unable to refuel owing to "bumpiness" in the atmosphere.

They landed at Roosevelt Field on Saturday evening. Ulbrich learned of the seriousness of Miss Viola Gentry's condition when he landed.

ROY C. ANDREWS FUNDS.

$500,000 SUBSCRIBED IN AMERICA.

WORK TO PROCEED?

[“D.P.” Special Service.]

New York, July 1.

The American Museum of Natural History reports total subscriptions to the Roy Chapman Andrews expedition of $500,000, mostly contributed by museum members in the various sections of the United States.

Funds for the present year are already in hand.

Appeal to China.

SHANGHAI, July 1.

Negotiations are proceeding with Wu Chao Chu (Dr. C. C. Wu) regarding completion of the Roy Chapman Andrews expedition's work.

57 YEARS AN EDITOR!

MR. SCOTT RESIGNS FROM "MANCHESTER GUARDIAN."

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, July 1.

Mr. C. P. Scott has resigned the Editorship of the Manchester Guardian.

His son, Mr. E. T. Scott, chief leader-writer for the past three years, succeeds to the post.

[Mr. Charles Prestwich Scott, who was born at Bath in 1846, has been Editor of the Manchester Guardian since 1873, and is, besides, the Governing Director of the newspaper.]

He was M.P. (Liberal) for Leigh, Lancashire 1896-1906, and is a Governor of Manchester University and Manchester Grammar School.]

ANOTHER "TRUNK LINE" IN AMERICA.

BIG RAILWAY MERGER.

[REUTER'S AMERICAN SERVICE.]

WASHINGTON, July 1.

Plans of another trunk line in the eastern United States have been filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

They embrace a merger of a number of railways. The proposed line will have western termini at Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha, and Des Moines, and eastern at New York, Philadelphia, and Baltimore.

There are at present four trunk lines in this part of the country.

THE "NUMANCIA" RESCUE.

JUBILATION STILL CONTINUES.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

MADRID, June 30.

Rejoicing continues throughout Spain over the rescue of the "Numancia."

Every available British, French, Italian and Portuguese flag has been commandeered for a monster demonstration, organized by the Spanish Aero Club, and participated in by many thousands, besieging the four Embassies to express their appreciation of the assistance in the search by means of uproarious applause.

Widespread Joy.

LONDON, July 1.

The Great pro-British demonstrations being held in Spain as a consequence of the H.M.S. Eagle's rescue of the missing airman are now echoed in the Western hemisphere.

At Buenos Aires thousands joined in spontaneous demonstrations on Saturday, on receipt of the news of the Numancia rescue. Crowds paraded the flag-draped streets shouting "Viva" for King George, the British Admiralty and Navy. Bluejackets on H.M.S. Durban, now in harbour, were joined when they landed, and there was a special demonstration in front of the British Legation.

At Mexico City the "Spanish colony" demonstrated in front of the British Legation. Cheers were raised for King George, and impromptu speeches made to which the British Consul responded.

High American naval officials in Washington warmly praise the ship's fine work.

THEIR MAJESTIES' RETURN.

TRIUMPHAL PROCESSION.

BRILLIANT SPECTACLE IN LONDON.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, June 30.

London will fully take advantage of the opportunity afforded it to-morrow to extend an immense welcome to the King and Queen when they ceremonially drive from the neighbourhood of the Albert Hall to Buckingham Palace on their return to town from Windsor.

Their Majesties will travel as far as Kensington in a closed motor-car then enter an open landau drawn by four horses, while soldiers will give the royal salute.

Members of the Royal suite will ride in two other open carriages, all of which will be drawn by four bays in scarlet and black and gold trappings, preceded by two outriders, in scarlet and gold, the semi-state livery. Two postillions, similarly liveried, will ride horses and there will be two footmen on the box.

The royal landau will be attended by captains of the escort from the Life Guards, and will bear the Royal Standard.

2½ Miles Procession.

The procession will follow a rather indirect route of 2½ miles to the palace, through Piccadilly and other high-class thoroughfares, where seats to view it are commanding as much as 25.

Their Majesties' re-entry into the capital will be triumphant in the highest degree, given fine weather, which, unfortunately, is breaking up—thus ending the long drought.

Send-off at Windsor.

LONDON, July 1.

The weather this morning was dull and cold, boding ill for the King's return to his Capital.

The event drew a multitude along the 2½-mile route of the State Procession, from the Albert Hall to Buckingham Palace. There were many from overseas, and Americans who are now thronging London.

The rain held off and the sun broke out shortly before noon, when Their Majesties, who motored from Windsor, were due to take their seats in the open State Carriage at the Albert Hall.

There was a great send-off at Windsor, where a bugle sounding the Royal Salute announced to the citizens thronging streets, windows, and roofs, that Their Majesties were leaving the castle.

A mighty cheer went up mingled with cries of "Good Luck, Your Majesty" and "Good Health."

The King was attired in a silk hat and morning dress, and the Queen in a fur-trimmed coat of cream and gold.

Both were obviously delighted at their welcome.

Kensington's Gala Day.

The Royal Borough of Kensington was in gala dress.

High Street was a blaze of flags. One building flew the emblems of all the British Dominions and Colonies.

Unseen by the crowd, Their Majesties, on arrival at the Albert Hall at noon, changed into an open landau and entered Kensington Gardens, amid tumultuous cheers.

King's Gratitude.

His Majesty's bronzed face, light step, and the manner in which he helped the Queen into the carriage showed his strength was quite restored.

Waves of cheering burst from the loyal multitude waiting anxiously to see for themselves how the King looked. The King repeatedly raised his hat, and the Queen bowed in response to the welcome. Immediately he arrived at the Palace the King issued the following message:

"I wish to express by heartfelt gratitude at the most affectionate and enthusiastic welcome which I received on returning after long months of illness to the capital of My Empire."

Wonderful Scenes.

Their Majesties appeared on the balcony of Buckingham Palace a few minutes after their return. A crowd estimated at 100,000 sang God Save the King, led by the Guards Band, then broke out into spontaneous cheering.

Princess Elizabeth on the balcony, and the Queen took the baby in her arms.

CIGARETTE SALES DOWN.

AMERICAN TOBACCO CO. FIGURES.

RESULT OF WARFARE.

[“D.P.” Special Service.]

New York, July 1.

The American Tobacco Company report shows that for the first four months of 1929 cigarettes exported to China were valued at $7,632,000 as against $8,162,000 for the previous corresponding period.

The decrease is attributed to effects of Chinese warfare.

THE AFGHAN TROUBLE.

NADIR KHAN IN FLIGHT.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

CALCUTTA, June 1.

Nadir Khan has reportedly fled to Peshawar, a North-west frontier province, following the capture of his headquarters at Gardez by tribesmen allied to Habibullah.

Many fugitives from Gardez have taken refuge in British territory.

PROTECTING EXCHANGE.

SPANISH CURRENCY MEASURES.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

MADRID, June 30.

The Government has decided to re-introduce the gold standard at the most opportune moment. The revaluation of the currency will be simultaneously carried out.

The Government has renewed the credits arranged last year with a syndicate of British bankers and contemplates accepting offers of further credits from various countries, with a view to protecting the exchange by the acquisition of all pesetas offered to it at the current rate of exchange, as it is convinced that the intrinsic value of the peseta is much higher than the present rate implies.

Protective industrial measures will be formulated with the object of strengthening the commercial balance.

SINKING COIN IN A WELL.

LONDON WORKMAN'S ELUSIVE HALF-CROWN.

[“D.P.” Special Service.]

One of the deepest wells in London, which when finished, will be more than 560 feet deep, is being bored underneath the Savoy Hotel to provide 15,000 gallons of water an hour.

Another 400 feet have to be bored before it is finished, but the work is being relieved by a comic element.

A few days ago a workman dropped half a crown on the watery bed of the well. The boring has been accompanied ever since by a constant search for the missing coin, which is still at the ever-descending bottom of the well.

The half-crown has sunk more than 100 feet since it was lost.

STABBING AFFAIR.

MAORI FATALLY WOUNDED IN STREET.

In a stabbing affair in South Eton Street, South Shields, recently, a Maori named George Frankie, aged 36, was killed, and two Arabs who are believed to be implicated disappeared.

Frankie, who was a runner at a seamen's boarding-house, was seen to be in a quarrel with the two Arabs, and one of the Arabs is alleged to have drawn a knife and stabbed Frankie in the body.

Frankie collapsed, and was rushed to the hospital, where he died shortly after admission.

The police are searching the district for the two missing Arabs.

FIGHTING THE "RUM RUNNERS."

A 3,000-MILE FENCE SUGGESTED!

A COSTLY BUSINESS.

[REUTER'S AMERICAN SERVICE.]

WASHINGTON, July 1.

Three thousand miles of barbed wire, three lines deep, and seven feet high, is the latest suggestion to prevent liquor trickling in from Canada.

The barricade is estimated to cost about $1,000,000, but Mr. Lowman, Assistant Secretary to the Treasury, whose zeal was recently violently condemned, is of opinion it will be cheap, as at present 1,000 men, at cost of $1,000 annually, are unable to stop rum-running, whereas a barbed-wire fence would facilitate the job, with fewer agents.

SINGING SERGEANT MAJOR.

"OLD SOLDIERS NEVER DIE" REPLY TO "RED FLAG."

Mr. Harry Durrant, an ex-sergeant-major, of Harvey-road, Leytonstone, who appeared at Bow County Court recently on a summons for possession brought by Mr. Harry Vile, of Norton Folgate, Bishopsgate, said that he could not obtain any rent from his sub-tenants.

"I am an old soldier," he added, "and a little political, and when one of my sub-tenants came into the house he was a rank Communist. He started singing 'The Red Flag' in the passage which annoyed me, so I sang 'Old Soldiers Never Die'."

Judge Thompson, K.C.: Yes, that is very good.

Mr. Durrant: I could not beat him physically, but I could morally.

Judge Thompson: Yes, a sergeant-major's voice carries.

Mr. Durrant: Quite, and I used a few of my own words which were necessary.

Mr. Durrant said that he would go out of the house in one month and pay the arrears as he was a man of honour.

Judge Thompson: That is the spirit.

14 DEATHS CAUSED BY A NEEDLE.

DRUG TRAGEDY OF CAIRO.

YENGEANCE CRY IN HOSPITAL WARD.

One of the strangest dramas in the drug-stricken underworld reached its climax in Cairo recently, when a number of dying persons lying in rows in the Kasr el-Nas hospital raised themselves for a moment to swear vengeance on the man who was the cause of their plight.

The door of the ward opened—and the man himself was wheeled in to take his place in one of the beds amid the shouts of execration of his victims.

Police Mystified.

Police, who have been raiding known drug centres in the Boulak district of the city, have been mystified during the past few days by the number of persons found lying unconscious in the streets.

Empty packets of the deadly drug heroin were found beside the inert bodies, but when fourteen persons died, the cause of death was found to be malignant malaria. The anophiles mosquito, the carrier of malaria germs, is not known in the district.

A statement issued by the director of the new Narcotics Bureau has cleared up the mystery. It is stated that the infection has been traced to dirty hypodermic needles used to inject the drug. These needles were used continuously without being washed, and the malaria brought, by one person from an outlying district was thus conveyed to every person on whom the needle was used.

The latest victim is a woman who was found dead in the street, but the epidemic is not yet over, and more deaths are expected.

THE WISE-HAIRED TERRIER.

JACK-A STORY WITH AN UNHAPPY ENDING.

(LONDON, Ireland.) Jack, a little wire-haired terrier, and the favourite dog of Mr. James Ledwith, a farmer, of Legan, has just added another wonderful page to the history of canine sagacity.

Mr. Ledwith was working alone at a hayrick when it collapsed and buried him.

He lay there for twenty-four hours before Jack's instinct told him something was wrong.

The dog tore frantically at the hay, and in two hours had bored a tunnel through to his master.

Jack then rushed to the nearest farmyard, where he barked and howled, availing, for Mr. Ledwith died while the dog was raising the alarm.

BRITAIN AND THE LEAGUE.

PERSONNEL OF THE DELEGATION.

A NATIONAL POLICY.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, June 30.

The Government has decided that the personnel of the British delegation to the League Assembly in September will not be limited strictly to a party basis. This follows the precedent of 1924.

It is understood that the decision is a manifestation of the Cabinet's deliberate policy to conduct their administration on national and not on party lines.

The Observer says the policy naturally follows from the Government's but none the less it is regarded in itself as being highly desirable by diplomatic opinion.

$50,000 CLAIM OF U.S. "VENUS."

DOROTHY KNAPP SUES EARL CARROLL.

"CONSPIRACY."

Miss Dorothy Knapp, who was billed by Earl Carroll as "The Most Beautiful Woman in the World," and whose place was subsequently taken by another actress in the leading role of the musical comedy, "Fioretta," which closed its run recently, has brought a law suit for $50,000 damages.

A co-defendant with Mr. Carroll is Mrs. Anne Wainwright-Pennfield, who is described as the financial backer of the enterprise.

Miss Knapp's action is for conspiracy to damage her reputation as an artist.

Miss Dorothy Knapp rose from the ranks of the famous Ziegfeld Follies, and was acclaimed four years in succession the most beautiful girl in America. Artists hailed her as a modern Venus.

GEORGE EATS HIS WAY TO A CUP.

BUT FAILS TO WIN THE PING-PONG TITLE.

UNINVITED GUEST.

A ping-pong duck was fought out at the Memorial Hall, Farringdon-street, before thirty-one spectators recently.

To be strictly accurate, there were thirty-one spectators until George, a wire-haired fox terrier, arrived.

George made the thirty-second spectator, and he ate three ping-pong balls in the first five minutes.

After that he settled down to enjoy himself, not caring a bark who won.

"Rats!"

He just waited behind a table, and pretended that every ball that rolled under the chairs was a rat.

One mishit, which rebounded off a player, shot out of the door and down the stairs.

George chased it, with a yelp of triumph, to the front door, and fought the commissionaire for it.

"He was on it before I could say 'knife,'" said the commissionaire, "and he swallowed it like a pill."

At 4 p.m. George was led out on a chain. He had "swallowed" having eaten at least ten ping-pong balls. He should have been awarded the cup.

A conference of experts has concluded that the recent earthquakes in the Wellington, N.Z., area were merely a normal manifestation of the release of the Earth's stresses and nothing exceptional in phenomena, geologically considered. The opinion is expressed that the stresses were relieved over such a wide area that major disturbances in the immediate future along the same fault are unlikely.

TOPICAL NOTES AND COMMENTS ON LOCAL SPORTS.

[By "BROADCASTER"]

SWIMMING.

The opening of the South China Athletic Association's bathing pavilion at Quarry Bay is an important milestone on the road of progress on which this association has been travelling since its inception. In the space of fourteen years, their membership has increased from 30 to 4,000, figures which speak for themselves, and their activities include practically all branches of sport in Hong Kong. The notable thing about the S.C.A.A. is that whatever they take up, they take up thoroughly and make a success of it. It is interesting to read how the bathing pavilion—by far the best of its kind in the Colony—came into existence. In 1920, the Association held a picnic on a hillside. This proved so popular that it was found necessary to hold picnics more frequently and eventually the club decided to have a permanent bathing place. On obtaining a site at Quarry Bay, they put up a mat-bath and at once interest in swimming increased by leaps and bounds. So rapid has been the growth and so wholeheartedly has been the support of the club by its swimming members, that the building of a permanent structure was a matter of course.

All roads led to Quarry Bay on Saturday and those who had to travel by tram found it difficult even to obtain standing room. From 2 p.m. onwards every public motor-car and taxi was commandeered by those who were going to see the official opening of the Club and the scene at Causeway Bay and on the road between Causeway Bay and the new pavilion reminded one of the crowds which visited the Grand Military Tattoo last year. All this went to show what a great following the S.C.A.A. possesses and the keen interest which the Chinese take in swimming. Chinese women are as keen as the men and the day seems not far distant when from amongst the great number of women swimmers there will emerge not only a local champion, but one who will be well amongst the best in the Far East.

The exhibition which the members of the S.C.A.A. staged for the entertainment of H.E. the Governor and guests was a happy idea and it proved most interesting and successful, being very much enjoyed by one and all. Those who did not understand how some of the stunts were performed were delighted by them and for the expert swimmer the display provided an interesting study. The exhibition proved that not only have the Chinese taken to swimming wholeheartedly, but that many have made a close study of its advanced forms. I have read a "Waterman's" notes on how some of the stunts were performed and can endorse the opinion that the display was the outcome of months of practice. To perform stunts in water, it is not enough to be a good swimmer—it is necessary to practice regularly, and the members of the S.C.A.A. are to be congratulated on Saturday's programme.

The Chinese have not so far provided a local champion in long or short distances in speed swimming and it seems that what they lack is a good coach—one who could give both theoretical and practical instruction. I have in mind a gentleman who could fill this place admirably and if the authorities of the Association so desired, I could put them in touch with him.

LAWN BOWLS.

After an interruption of three weeks caused by bad weather, clubs in the Lawn Bowls League were able to carry out their regular programme of matches on Saturday. One of the two popular fixtures in the Senior Division was the Dock Derby at Tai Koo. Kowloon Dock fully avenged their home defeat by winning on all rinks, and it was the first time that Tai Koo had been defeated at home this season. An interesting feature of the unexpected fall of Tai Koo is that it places the two Docks on level terms at the top of the League, which is particularly interesting, even with their hopes of getting even with their neighbours failed, as the Civil Service string had one rink that rose to the occasion. Grimmer's rink was responsible for consistently good play while Omar's rink seemed to be good on and off. The margin of 18 shots secured by Grimmer was the highest this season on any one Civil Service rink. It was a record defeat also on any one rink of the visitors. The Police tried hard in receiving the Bowling Green Club to break their spell of bad luck, but were again unsuccessful. Victory went to the visitors.

owing to the fall of West's rink for the third time in succession, while the other two home rinks kept a tight hold.

In the match at King's Park between Club de Recreio and Kowloon C.C., two rinks on each side helped the other to even up the total, but the third rink led by R. F. Luz succeeded in defeating Fraser's rink by eleven shots, which gave the home team a majority of nine shots altogether.

Two matches in the Junior Division were keenly contested and it was anybody's game until the last hole. Kowloon Bowling Green entertained Civil Service and won by two shots. It was D. Gow, acting as deputy for skip Warren, who helped his Club to win by carrying the other rinks with a majority of ten. The match between the Electric R.C. and Recreio was another close affair, and was won by the home team by three shots, thanks to the contribution of a dozen shots by Webster's rink. Tai Koo, as expected, won at Kowloon C.C. and all their rinks came out on top. Walsley's (T.R.C.) succeeded in maintaining his unbeaten rink record, although this time only by the narrow margin of a single shot, while the other two rinks taken together put them 23 shots ahead. The Yachtsmen failed to adapt themselves to the last green at Craignower and dropped 16 shots all round.

TENNIS.

In the "A" Division the Indian Recreation Club met their Waterloo at the hands of Kowloon C.C. and this defeat—their third consecutive one—has placed them out of the running for championship honours this season. Although the match was won by the narrowest possible margin, it struck me that if the Indians had played the same team from the beginning of the season the result might have been different. For instance, Cursem and A. A. Rummah were paired for the first time last Saturday and though they were playing well together at times, they lacked that understanding necessary in a doubles game.

Candidly I had expected S. H. Ismail to be dropped from the "A" team a couple of weeks ago. With all respect to the player in question, it is my belief that his days as a first division player are over. Ismail ranked among the leading I.R.C. players some years ago but recently he seems to have lost his form altogether. Against the M.B.K. he was distinctly disappointing.

While on the subject of form I may mention that in many cases players who show consistently good form at the H.K.C.C. tournaments are deplorably inconsistent in league games. This seems to be the case with many of the players who have taken part in the recent Club tournaments and it is not confined to one or two particular players.

The Hong Kong Cricket Club scored another win over the weekend—at the expense of the University whom they beat by seven sets to two. The Craignower-Recreio tie was another close affair. It was left to Noronha and Yvanovich (Recreio) and Leonard and Ismail to decide the issue. The final set was full of thrills and eventually went to the latter pair at 8-6. The most exciting game in the "B" Division was that between the M.B.K. and the H.K.C.C. The Japanese playing at home fully extended the Hong Kong C.C. sixteenth Kitajima and Fujimori did well in winning all their three sets but this did not wipe out the deficit of the other two home pairs and the visitors eventually won the match by the odd set.

There was no surprise in the "C" Division matches, H.K.C.C. I.R.C., and R.E. and R.S., all scoring fairly easy victories over C.S.C.C., Craignower, and R.A.O.C., respectively.

League tennis has now come to a very interesting stage though it looks pretty certain that the Hong Kong C.C. will run away in the "A" Division. It might be of interest to state here that the Fincher brothers for Kowloon Cricket Club suffered their first reverse at the hands of S. A. Rummah and S. A. Hussain last Saturday at Sookun-noo. Competition in the Second Division is more open—both the Chinese and the Cricket Club teams have yet to suffer their first defeat. Personally I would tip the former as likely champions but anything might happen. Recreio heads the "C" Division table with four wins out of five many games played while the only other unbeaten combination is the Japanese. The latter have only one defeat in their South China six. The latter have only one defeat in their South China six. The latter have only one defeat in their South China six.

BOBBY JONES STILL ON TOP.

AMERICAN "OPEN" WON.

THRILLING INCIDENTS.

[REUTERS' AMERICAN SERVICE.]

MAMARONECK, N.Y., June 30. After teeing with the professional, Al Espinosa, Bobby Jones (the famous amateur) easily won the play-off for the U.S.A. national golf championship.

He began the fourth round with a lead of three strokes from his nearest competitor (Gene Sarazen) and four from Espinosa.

Lead Thrown Away.

At the end of the 86th hole Bobby Jones was six strokes ahead of Espinosa. He was hailed as victor, but he threw away his lead as the 18th hole (of the fourth round) with seven strokes, followed by a five at the 16th hole.

Then he stood on the home green with a heart-breaking putt of 12 feet to do, in order to make his score 79 for the round (against Espinosa's 75) and thereby tie.

Bobby Jones was then labouring under a great strain. He removed his cigarette from his mouth; stamped it out on the grass; and took his putter. "Calamity Jane," from the caddy, to play the stroke in tense silence.

A Tense Moment.

The ball rolled towards the cup. An anguished wail in the crowd groaned "He's missed it" but, with a final lazy turn, the ball disappeared into the cup, releasing the pent-up hysteria in the pavilion.

This was one of the greatest strokes which ever holed out and it was one of the thrilling moments of the tournament.

Another was at the 8th green going out after lunch (i.e., in the fourth round or the 62nd hole of the tournament) when Bobby Jones took seven strokes "like a duffer handling a club for the first time."

The Play-Off.

The play-off (36 holes) was played to-day, Bobby Jones winning by 23 strokes, the score being eloquent testimony to his superiority:—

	1st	2nd	3rd	4th	Total
Jones	37	35	38	33	143
Espinosa	39	45	40	40	164

At the end of the first round of 18 holes, Jones led by 12 strokes, scoring 37 for the first 9 to his opponent's 39, and 35 for the other 9 to Espinosa's 45.

Espinosa lost complete control of the game after a good start. In the second 18 holes, Jones did even better than in the morning and sustained his lead.

A crowd of 15,000 watched the two play-off.

OUTLAWED FOR 3 YEARS.

Mr. Mead, the Marlborough-street magistrate, recently bound over Dennis O'Neill, a groom, in £3 for three years and ordered him to remain outside the County of London during that period unless he returned with a magistrate's consent.

O'Neill, who was unemployed and without a fixed address, was found guilty of stealing a shirt and tie from Mr. Peter Clarke, one of the coloured artists appearing in "Porgy."

FOOTBALL.

The decision of the Hong Kong Football Association to fix league positions on goal average when two or more teams tie on points will undoubtedly be welcome news to all lovers of football. It is a step in the right direction and the adoption of this system will do much to prove the standard of football in Hong Kong as it will make winning or losing teams contend every minute of actual play for fear that their goal average will be prejudiced. Although it does not frequently happen, there is a tendency to give up the struggle long before the final whistle, when a team is several goals down, or conversely, to relax the pressure of attack when a team is several goals on the right side. This will be altered by the introduction of the goal average ruling and supporters of football can look forward to better and brighter football this winter.

It is gratifying to note that the work of handling the Football Association's money will in future be undertaken by a firm of Chartered accountants, a considerable sum of money is taken at the gates and by way of subscription and it is only right that such a step should be taken. The appointment of Chartered accountants as Treasurers does not, by any stretch of imagination, mean that the officials of the Association will be deprived of the right to control the Association's fund and I am glad to see that the alternative suggestion to appoint a sub-committee to assist the Treasurers was not carried.

FATHER OF SPORTS SLANG.

"AMERICANISMS" FROM ENGLAND!

To "kid," "faker," "pink of condition," "fan," "cake-eater," to "pony up," the "fight is in the bag," "lucky break"—where did we get these terms? They have become so common, says William Henry Nugent, a sports writer, in The American Mercury, that philologists, amateur and professional, mistake them for Americanisms. But we learn as we read, that they come from England, which the writer assigns as the home of modern sports jargon.

Even in England, says Mr. Nugent, "critics write letters to the Times that we are corrupting—that is, Americanising—the mother tongue. Few seem to know that many of these words are making a return trip to their place of origin. For it was the British who taught them to us when they gave us our first lessons in sporting journalism."

"Chinaman's chance" is an example of these familiar phrases whose ancestry the writer traces. "It has nothing to do with an Asiatic. It dates from the 1820's, when a writer in the Weekly Dispatch, of London, called the light-hitting Tom Spring, whom he thought likely to break in a long fight, a 'china man'—that is, a porcelain man. 'Palooka,' now signifying a fifth-rate pugilist, derives from a pure Gaelic word. 'Ham,' a poor performer in any line of endeavour, especially on the stage or in the ring, began as an abbreviation of amateur to 'am,' which the Cockney foot-racers and pugilists of the seventies pronounced 'ham.'"

The father of sports slang, we are told, was Pierce Egan, of Life in London and Sporting Guide. This later became Bell's Life in London, and was edited by Vincent and George Dowling, who were also influential. These terms, it is added, may be found assembled in a half-forgotten lexicon that Egan compiled in 1823, the third edition of a work first issued by Francis Grose in 1785. We learn, reading further: "Etymologists have traced some of the entries to the gipsies, the Jews, the Romans, the French, the Irish." The 1823 title reads in full: "Francis Grose's Dictionary of the Vulgar Tongue as Revised and Corrected by Pierce Egan."

The fancy was long a class name in England and America for followers of boxing. Baseball hounded it and shortened it to "the fancy," "fans," and "fan." "I do not agree," says the writer, "with Ted Sullivan, who asserts in his 'Stories from the Diamond,' that he originated it as an abbreviation of 'fanatic.'"

A Dictionary of Slang.

Here, adds the writer, are some other things in Egan's dictionary that have a familiar sound to-day: "to kid," "to fake," "to stall of," "where do you get that stuff?" "cheese it," "cut it," "to hike," and "to crab" (that is, "to prevent the perfection or execution of any intended matter or business by saying anything offensive or unpleasant"). A "racket" or "rig" was "a particular kind of fraud or robbery." To cheat was "to trim," "to sting." A dishonest man was a "sharp," "a honest man was a 'sucker,' 'a 'fat,' 'Money was 'dust,' 'iron,' 'pony,' 'stephen,' 'daddy.' To 'post the ponny' or 'ponny up' meant to put up the coin. 'Even stephen' was even money. A 'beam' was a guinea; a 'jack' a farthing. Terms of male disapprobation included 'booby,' 'youkel,' 'stiff' (a dead one), 'kiddy' (a young thief), 'dumme,' 'collegiate' (a schoolboy), 'inmate of Newgate Prison,' often referred to as the 'collegiate,' 'gollump,' 'sucker,' 'cack,' or 'cackey' (a foolish fellow), 'fish' (a seaman), 'lobster' (a red-coat), 'lame duck' (a defaulter at the Stock Exchange), 'scab,' and 'yellow-belly.'"

Here are some synonyms Egan used in his boxing stories:—Head: 'Knowledge-box,' 'tea-canister,' 'can,' 'block,' 'nob,' 'phreno,' 'fogy-box,' 'pimple,' 'Nose: 'Conk,' 'snuffer-tray,' 'peak,' 'snorer,' 'Peepers,' 'smeller,' 'Eyes: 'Blinners,' 'squinters,' 'shutters,' 'blinders,' 'lamps.' A black eye was 'a touch of the blue-bag under the peeper.' A blow might be a 'soc' or a 'wisty-caster' or a 'leveler.' His dictionary of nicknames for milling coves—that is, boxers—includes 'Young Sky Blue,' 'Gas Hickman,' the 'Fighting Quaker,' the 'Old Ruffian,' the 'Young Pitch-pot Jack,' the 'Birmingham Little Gipsy,' the 'Chelms Snob,' the 'Ologmaker,' the 'Prime Irish Lord,' and the 'Nonpareil.'"

Bell's Life, adds the writer, carrying on the slang tradition, printed this bit in 1888 in telling how Tom Sayers defeated the Tip-ton Slasher for the championship of England:— "Sayers danced lightly out of harm's way, and then, stepping in, popped a tidy smack on the spectacle-ears, and dancing around his man and easily avoiding several more lunges, Tom again got home (Continued on next column).

GERMAN MUSICIANS AT CRAIGENGOWER.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON BAND CONCERT.

A rare musical treat was provided at the Craignower Cricket Club on Sunday afternoon by German musicians from the S.A. Derflinger. Several lawn bowls rink competitions were in progress when the party announced their presence from the verandah to the players, who appeared to have been taken by surprise as much as residents in the neighbourhood. The visit of the musicians had been arranged by a member of the Club, who kept the secret until ten brass instruments and a drum set broke the silence.

Selections were given from German composers with short intervals between each item. The volume of sound was rather powerful for indoors and would have been better at an open-air party, but the music was nevertheless enjoyed by all present. Club members were not slow in realising that among the players was a brilliant young pianist. He was as willing as he was talented and gave a generous number of encores which elicited much applause. It was with great reluctance that he and the other members of the party were released when it was time for them to return to the ship. The concert lasted from 3 to 5 p.m.

METALS.

COPPER.

Messrs. Penfrenth & Co. here kindly forwarded us the following letter dated June 27 from Messrs. Hornby Hemmery & Co.

A firm tone has been noticeable, and with greater interest being shown in the forward position, the backward has narrowed.

Considerable support to the Standard market continues in purchases for American account of all the cheap metal available. Important quantities have already been up, and these are likely to be augmented during the present month and early July, although so far, there are no signs of the metal being shipped to the United States. The operations suggest, however, an underlying intention to maintain values of electrolytic. In the meantime, the United Kingdom stocks at the end of May were 775 tons refined and 5,163 tons rough, compared with 927 tons and 3,718 tons respectively at the end of April.

Some improvement has occurred in prices latterly which is attributed to the favourable view taken regarding the May statistics. Certainly the deliveries at 13,429 tons, against 12,112 tons during the previous month, and 8,541 tons during May last year are remarkably good, although the visible supply is large at 24,764 tons when compared with 17,170 tons a year ago and 14,528 tons at the end of May 1927.

The market has been more active during the past two days than for some time, although evidently nervous, and speculation now hinges on the prospects of failure or success attending the supposed negotiations amongst the producers, progress regarding which remains very obscure.

ADVERTISING OF EMPIRE GOODS.

PUBLICITY CUP PRESENTED TO SIR W. CRAWFORD.

The Lord Mayor, at a recent meeting of the London Publicity Club, held at the Mansion House, presented the Publicity Cup to Sir William Crawford. The cup is awarded annually to the man or woman who is considered to have performed the most signal achievement in advertising, and in the speeches high tributes were paid to the work of Sir William Crawford in connection with the Empire Marketing Board.

In acknowledging the presentation, Sir William Crawford said he was especially pleased that the cup had been awarded for services in connection with Empire development, because practically every advertisement he knew criticized the policy of the Empire Marketing Board. (Laughter.) Never before, however, had so much interest been shown in this country or overseas in questions of Empire marketing and never before had the sales of Empire produce in the Mother Country been higher. One outcome of the work of the Board had been that now, each of the Dominions was spending money here to advertise its products. The Empire Marketing Board had achieved results with the minimum of expense. There was an impression that they were spending £1,000,000 a year on advertising. They were actually spending less than one quarter of their income on publicity and for a year or two he saw no prospect of any increase in that expenditure.

It was the duty of the advertising man to look to the future and the future lay in Empire development, not only in buying Empire produce here, but also in selling our goods throughout the Empire and increasing our exports to other countries. We must increase our export trade or die, and advertising men must devote their minds to the future of the Empire. That would increase output and find more work and money for the British people.

CANTON TRADE NOTES.

The sugar market in Hong Kong has remained inactive and prices low. Considerable quantities of Java sugar are shortly expected which will probably cause a further drop in price.

Merchants who wish to see the consuls in Hong Kong on business should note that the Consular Bldg. in this Colony has decided that from July 1 to August 31, their office hours will be from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Large consignments of Annam and Siam rice have been imported by Hong Kong during the last two days, but demand has been limited as the merchants hesitate to place large orders and since there is little demand from the country districts, prices have consequently dropped.

There is still considerable activity in the Canton cotton yarn market. Demand is large and stocks short. On Sunday, prices of No. 20, No. 32 and No. 42 advanced five to six dollars. Prices have also risen by one to two taels at Shanghai according to telegraphic advices.

The fire cracker industry has been on the decline during recent years, and has been hit hard this year on account of the heavy tax and less demand. The manufacture of fire-crackers was formerly one of the chief industries of Canton, for besides supplying the whole province, large quantities were exported.

The price of potatoes is very low this year on account of abundant harvest. Large quantities are coming in from the country districts and the villagers are anxious to sell at any price as the potatoes cannot last long and rot quickly during the hot weather. The current price is about a dollar per picul, which is lower than it has been for many years.

The general market in Wuchow is still quiet and prices remain high. The export figures for poultry and cattle are still low owing to the difficulty of transport to the country districts of Kwangsi. The banknotes of the Kwangsi Provincial Bank are practically worthless being quoted at only three per cent. of their nominal value. The funds of the Bank were carried away by the Kwangsi rebels.

RARE BOOK FOUND.

"THE PLANE MAN'S PATHWAY TO HEAVEN."

There has been found in a Cheshire cottage a 1601 copy of the book "The Plane Man's Pathway to Heaven." This was the title of one of the two books which John Bunyan received from his wife when he, a soldier at the time in the Parliamentary Army, was 19 years of age. The two books were the only marriage portion which Bunyan's wife brought him. Only one first edition copy of "The Plane Man's Pathway to Heaven" is known to exist, and it is in the British Museum, says the Times.

"The Plane Man's Pathway to Heaven" was written by Arthur Dent, and the 1601 book, which a Nantwich man, Thomas Hughes, a roadman, of Burland Chapel House, has found among lumber in an old chest of drawers, is dedicated by Dent in the quaint manner of his time. The preface announces:—"This edition is printed from South Shoobery, Essex, April 10, Anno Domini 1601—Your worship to command in the Lord—Arthur Dent."

The book is dedicated "To the Right Honourable Sir Julius Caesar, Knight, one of the Ministers to the King's Majesty: Judge of the High Court of Admiralty: Master of St. Katharine, A.D. Wisheth all good things in Jesus Christ." The companion book which Bunyan's wife took to her young soldier husband was entitled "The Practice of Piety." Both books are supposed to have long since disappeared.

The copy of "The Plane Man's Pathway to Heaven" which Mr. Hughes found is in fine condition, considering its 328 years, the old leather binding being without a crack, and the book is intact, only a few of the earlier pages being perished on the fringe without harm to the letterpress.

The value of the book will, of course, depend upon its being authenticated as a first edition copy by comparing it with the treasured copy in the British Museum. In any case, it is a very rare book, only a few copies of later editions being extant.

Mr. Justice Rowlett in the King's Bench Division, what is possible, has been able to say. It is not simple. Home. That is not enough. It is home with a little legal flavouring.

AUSTRIA AND DISARMAMENT.

QUESTION OF LARGE ARMY.

PRESS SCOFFS AT SUPER-ANNUATED CHARGES.

Berlin.—Surprise has been caused here and in Vienna by the announcement that French Foreign Minister Briand has just delivered to the Secretary General of the League of Nations the report of the League's special commission instituted to investigate whether and how far Austria has fulfilled her obligations under the peace treaty regarding disarmament.

In his report, the French Foreign Minister as chairman of the commission points out that Austria's disarmament must still be regarded as incomplete, as there exist in the country a number of organisations which cultivate a warlike spirit which might eventually be used by certain other warlike states as a basis for their own ambitions.

Press Comments.

Furthermore, the present organisation of the Austrian army is such that it allows of the creation within a short time of an army of between 300,000 and 350,000 men. It has also been found, the report says, that close co-operation is being maintained between the Austrian and German general staffs with a tendency of unifying their respective military systems and methods.

The submission of this report to the League's Secretariat and its publication at the present moment has come as a great surprise to political circles in Vienna and Berlin. The Austrian press pointing out that the investigations on which the report is based were conducted by the said commission as far back as on January 31, 1928, and were then declared as having been fully satisfactory.

"Superannuated Charges."

Neither the Austrian nor the German army has, it is emphasised, a general staff, and if such an organisation had been secretly created, it would have been found out and forbidden long ago by the Allied control and secret service organs, while the feared eventual increase of the Austrian army, possibly 300,000 is simply ridiculous if it is considered that Austria's whole population is a mere 8.5 millions.

The Berliner Tageblatt, in its comment, also asks why the French Foreign Minister chose just the present moment for dragging those ancient stories into the limelight. The only possible explanation is, the paper says, that those superannuated and long-ago-refuted charges are intended to be used in the coming diplomatic game concerning the evacuation of the Rhineland when, as has already been suggested by certain French papers, France will propose the creation of a permanent commission which, after the withdrawal of the Allied military forces from the Rhineland, would continue, though under a less offensive name, the control of which, France ought, a proposal, will be absolutely unacceptable to Germany, inasmuch as such a possibility is not even provided for in the Versailles treaty.

GLASS HOUSES.

LATEST AMERICAN IDEA.

[United Press.]

Chicago.—Before the close of the 1933 World's Fair here, Americans will begin to live in glass houses, according to the belief of Pierre Blouke, prominent architect. These homes will be made in factories, sold by mail and delivered within forty-eight hours by truck, Blouke says. Heat will be furnished by electric light bulbs that illuminate the home. Not much heat will be needed, he explained, because exterior walls will be of two thicknesses of plate glass with space between providing a vacuum which will make the houses warm in winter and cool in summer.

Moreover, he foresees these houses with the essential furniture built in and fastened down as is now done on board ships. There will be a minimum of loose pieces. To complete this wonder house, every home will have a built-in typewriter or two so that mother may type her menus and the children their lessons.

Harvey Wiley Corbett, of New York, chairman of the Chicago World's Fair Agricultural Committee, plans to build the first house of this kind within the next year for his wife. Blouke believes that it won't be four years before homes will be manufactured like automobiles in certain centres and assembled in strategically located sections to be delivered "complete."

"You may then buy a home for at least half the cost of the present home," he said.

DOCTOR STRUCK OFF REGISTER.

ALLEGED ASSOCIATION WITH NEWSPAPER ARTICLE.

ASTHMA CURE.

The General Medical Council recently considered the case of Dr. Haydn Brown, registered as of Bedford-Square, London, who had been summoned to appear before the Council to answer a charge of unprofessional conduct in connection with his association with or acquiescence in the publication of announcements in the Daily Record and Mail, Glasgow, on three dates in January, 1929, for the purpose of obtaining patients with a view to promoting his own professional advantage.

Sir Donald MacAlister, after the Council had deliberated in private for a short time, said that the charge had been proved. Dr. Haydn Brown had been found guilty of unprofessional conduct, and his name would be erased from the register.

Experienced Man.

The complaint was brought by the Medical Defence Union, for whom Mr. O. Hempton, solicitor, opened the case. He said that Dr. Haydn Brown was a man of considerable experience, having been registered in 1893. He could not, therefore, plead ignorance of the ways of the profession.

He had put himself into this position, with his eyes open. Dr. Haydn Brown claimed that what he had done was with the utmost purity of motive and with no idea of attracting notice to himself or of making profit.

The articles, Mr. Hempton continued, dealt with a cure for asthma by a London doctor, with whom the newspaper put sufferers into touch. Dr. Haydn Brown being the Council Dr. Haydn Brown said that the sole purpose of taking patients from Glasgow through the newspaper was in order to convince medical men that there was a simple and certain cure for asthma.

"Autonomous Relaxation."

Mr. W. Frampton, representing Dr. Haydn Brown, said there was no doubt his client had associated himself with and acquiesced in the publication of two of the articles. The doctor had devoted a good deal of time to research work, and believed that a method which he called "autonomous relaxation" was a remedy for many maladies.

It so happened that a Glasgow man wrote a letter to the newspaper asking whether there was a cure for asthma. That letter came into the hands of Dr. Haydn Brown, who wrote to the editor of the newspaper enjoining secrecy as to his own name.

At the subsequent request of the editor he treated the man who in gratitude for the relief he had been given described his condition in a letter which was published in connection with the newspaper's campaign. Some 150 persons applied to the editor of the newspaper to be put in touch with the doctor. Twenty-three of these patients were treated free of charge by him.

It was in those circumstances that he became identified with the publications in the newspaper. The newspaper's enterprise in regard to this campaign was engineered at all by Dr. Haydn Brown. In 1894, stated Mr. Frampton, Dr. Haydn Brown made a blunder, and his name was erased from the register, but was restored a year later.

The Council then retired to consider the case, and reached the decision reported above.

WIDOW SURPRISES AN "INTRUDER."

ALLEGED HOUSEBREAKER CHASED AND CAUGHT.

A widow described at Marylebone Police Court the pursuit of an alleged housebreaker, who, she said, jumped out of her dining-room window when she returned from a shopping expedition in the afternoon. George Smith, of Newton House, King's Cross, who pleaded guilty, was committed for trial on the charge of breaking and entering the house of Mrs. Kathleen Salisbury Ewen, a widow, in Clifton-hill, St. John's Wood, London.

Mrs. Ewen said she returned home, and found the front door bolted. She suspected that some one was inside, and she went to the side of the house. She was peering round the corner, when the dining-room window was jerked up and Smith jumped out. She ran across the garden, and he followed her, but he leaped over the wall into the next garden, and disappeared. She screamed, and a man went over the wall after Smith and raised a hue and cry.

Police Constable Hammond said he saw Smith running down Clifton-hill followed by a number of people. He stopped him and took him back to Mrs. Ewen, who accused him of breaking into her house. A jemmy was found in the front garden of Mrs. Ewen's neighbour.

TENANT COMPLAINS OF BEETLES.

JUDGE FINDS THERE WERE NO MORE THAN USUAL.

AGREEMENT DISPUTE.

A woman who left a flat because she alleged that she found beetles in her bedroom and heard that there had been one on her bed, was the defendant in an action heard by Mr. Justice Roche in the King's Bench Division recently.

The plaintiff was Mrs. Eugenie Maria Quirk, a widow, of Pont Street, London, S.W., and she sued Mrs. Kathleen Mabel Moseley, of Knightsbridge, claiming damages for an alleged breach of a tenancy agreement dated April 20, 1928.

Mrs. Moseley contended that it was an implied condition of the agreement that the flat was to be clean and fit for habitation, which, she alleged, it was not. She counter-claimed for rent which she said should be returned.

Rental of £268.

Mr. Trustram Eve, for a Mrs. Quirk, said the flat was three-roomed service furnished flat in Pont Street. Mrs. Moseley contended that the flat was not habitable, and that she was entitled to repudiate the agreement and in fact did so. The rent of the flat from April 25 to December 31 last was £268 odd. The first reference to beetles was some seven weeks after the tenancy commenced, when Mrs. Moseley wrote and complained that there had been beetles in the flat.

Mrs. Quirk, in evidence, said that the flat was perfectly clean. She had seen a few beetles in the flat, but not many.

Mr. Thomas Ernest Howard, a pestologist, said he forced out about forty or fifty beetles which came from under a stone floor in the basement of the house. On subsequent visits no beetles were found on the surface, but later, in Mrs. Moseley's time, seven or eight were killed. Beetles thrived best on warmth and moisture, he said. His firm had been established for a hundred years.

Mr. Justice Roche: Did they call themselves pestologists then or rat-catchers?—I could not say.

Report of One on the Bed.

Replying to Mr. Stenham for Mrs. Moseley, Mr. Howard said that a few eggs could be the starting point of millions of beetles. Do they breed rapidly?—Four or five times a year.

Mrs. Moseley said that she noticed a peculiar odour when she first went into the flat. On one occasion she saw a great number of beetles coming from the waicouting in the dining-room. She saw three beetles near the washstand in her bedroom, and when a servant told her that there had been a beetle in her bed it caused her to leave the flat.

Mrs. A. E. Marlow, a charwoman who was employed to clean the flat, said that she found a large quantity of insect powder there, and Mrs. E. J. Palmer, a trained nurse, said that once she saw a rat, adding: "There were beetles galore in every cupboard we opened on the day we left."

Mrs. Fitzmorris Murray, a friend of Mrs. Moseley, said when they first went to the flat she noticed that it was exceedingly dirty before the charwoman started working. There were beetles in the bathroom.

Satisfied With Evidence.

Mr. Justice Roche said that he was satisfied that Mrs. Quirk's evidence represented the true facts of the case. It was exaggerated to say that the premises were filthy or anything like it. Mrs. Quirk said that as they were not in such a state of cleanliness as she would have desired, she would pay the expense of the cleaning which Mrs. Moseley naturally desired to have done.

Mrs. Quirk thought it was done too expensively, and unwisely disputed the matter of a few pounds. Therefore, in respect to the counter-claim, he would allow Mrs. Moseley £6 by way of a set-off.

With regard to other matters there were some beetles, but he was satisfied that there were not great quantities, any more than was usual in houses constructed in London at the same time. Mrs. Moseley was not justified in throwing up the tenancy for that reason. Mrs. Moseley evidently appreciated that the London mansion was at an end, and she was no longer desirous to inhabit the flat. She was also annoyed about the matter of the cost of the cleaning and the beetles.

Those joint facts inspired her to throw up the tenancy, but she had no right to do so. After taking into consideration the question of the counter-claim, he gave judgment for Mrs. Quirk for £22 18s. 3d. with costs.

CHRISTIE'S GOOD INNINGS.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

London, July 1. The weather at Lords was dull and cool when the Second Test Match was resumed this morning. Mitchell and Christie re-started before a good attendance, and runs came steadily. Christie doing most of the scoring.

At lunch South Africa had scored 160 for 4 wickets.

Quicker Scoring.

After lunch the scoring appears to have speeded up, as at the ten interval South Africa's last wicket had fallen with the total at 222, giving the tourists a lead of 20 runs.

FOOTBALL COUPONS TEST CASE.

RECORDER QUASHES A CONVICTION.

"NEW POINT."

The Recorder, Mr. E. G. Hemmings, K.C., at Liverpool today quashed a conviction by the Liverpool Stipendiary in a test case regarding football coupon betting.

The appeal was brought by Messrs. H. Littlewood & Co., commission agents, of White-chapel, Liverpool, who were fined £10 for illegally publishing football coupons.

Messrs. Littlewood, it was stated, issued 25,000 betting coupons every week, and subscribers sent in their bets on Friday, and win or lose they had to forward their stake money after the matches had been decided. This condition, the firm submitted, kept them within the law.

The Recorder, in giving his judgment, said that the case raised a new and important point. The contention was advanced by those who prosecuted that if the money was sent in before the match it was a consideration for the bet which had been made.

"I can only say," added the Recorder, "that if the Legislature meant that, it should have put its meaning in plain language. As it is, it is not a consideration for the bet, but a consideration for the stake."

He found, therefore, that the business was not run for the making of ready money bets, allowed the appeal with costs, and quashed the conviction.

The Recorder added that the matter was of such great importance that he would state a case if desired.

LESSON SERMON.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST, HONG KONG.

"Christian Science" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, June 30.

The Golden Text was: "O send out thy light and thy truth: let them lead me: let them bring me unto thy holy hill, and to thy tabernacles" (Ps. 43:3).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "And when he had called unto him his twelve disciples, he gave them power against unclean spirits, to cast them out, and to heal all manner of sickness and all manner of disease. These twelve Jesus sent forth, and commanded them saying, Go not into the way of the Gentiles, and into any city of the Samaritans enter ye not: But go rather to the lost sheep of Israel. And as ye go, preach, saying, The Kingdom of heaven is at hand. Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out devils: freely ye have received, freely give." (Matt. 10:1-8).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science text-book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "To-day the healing power of Truth is widely demonstrated as an immortal, eternal Science, instead of a phenomenal exhibition."

Now, as then, signs and wonders are wrought in the metaphysical healing of physical disease; but these signs are only to demonstrate the divine origin—to attest the reality of the higher mission of the Christ-power to take away the sins of the world (p.150).

THE ROMAN WOLVES.

CUBS WELCOMED AS A SIGN OF THE TIMES.

The Romans, who for centuries have kept a lonely eagle and a couple of wolves on Capitoline Hill as symbols of empire and of the wolf which suckled the founders of the capital, Romulus and Remus, are delighted with a happy event announced recently in the wolf's cage.

The she-wolf gave birth to seven cubs, all healthy and strong. The fact is commented on by the Roman Press as a happy sign of the times in which prolific families are a mark of patriotism.

At the time the cubs will be taken to the Zoo, and later a couple will be chosen from them to take the place of honour on the Capitoline when the parents are no longer.

CRIME KING SENTENCED.

"PHILADELPHIA IS NOT AFRAID OF YOU."

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

"Scarface" Al Capone, Chicago's notorious king of the underworld, who had evaded police interference with his activities so successfully, was sentenced in Philadelphia recently to one year's imprisonment on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. Frank Cline, his body-guard, received a similar sentence.

Capone and Cline had just arrived in Philadelphia from Atlantic City on their way to Chicago. Detectives, having them under surveillance, took them in charge as suspicious characters as they emerged from a cinema. They searched them, found a revolver on each, and took them to the night court, where Mr. Carnegie, the magistrate, ordered them to be released on bail of $7,000 each for hearing.

Al Capone produced $2,000 from his pocket, but could not raise the remainder, so both spent the night in goal. The police took from Capone a large diamond.

Mr. Carnegie, in fixing the bail, said: "Authorities in some American cities, including some public prosecutors, are afraid of you, Mr. Al Capone, but Philadelphia is not afraid of you. My only regret is that you are not before me on charges which would justify me in ridding the United States of you for ever."

"Marked for Death."

The two men were taken before Judge Walsh today, pleaded guilty, and received their sentences calmly. Capone, replying to a question why he carried a revolver, said, "I'm on the mark, you know—marked for death."

There was great excitement in the Chicago underworld when the news of Capone's sentence reached that City. Liquor runners expressed the opinion that Capone is not averse to spending the next twelve months in goal, as it will safeguard him from assassination until Chicago's present underworld feud, which is the result of the murder of the Moran gangsters in February, quiets down.

There was a palatial home at Palm Island, Florida, erected at a cost of $20,000, and within its Spanish walls lives a life of luxury. The house is virtually a fortress, and he is guarded by a strong force of gunmen as a precaution against the attacks of rival Chicago gunmen, who have sworn to "get him."

Capone, a burly Italian, six feet high, is wanted in Chicago, where he is involved in a case concerning the assassination of seven men.

"Scarface" proposed recently to retire, but it is said that his followers threatened him with death. He is reported to have taken energetic measures to extend his "kingdom."

He made a tour of the depots for bootleg liquor at New Orleans, Miami, and places on the Canadian border through which contraband liquor was smuggled. He then announced that all bootleg liquor in Chicago must be handled through his subjects.

War broke out in Chicago after this decision, and whenever a bomb exploded or the body of a bootlegger was found riddled with bullets the police subjected Capone to an examination.

HE KNOCKED MY SISTER AND MOTHER ABOUT.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

A remarkable statement said to have been made by a boy of sixteen was repeated at West London Police Court when Thomas Frederick Carter, described as a printer's apprentice, Chesson-road, West Kensington, was remanded for a week on a charge of murdering Arthur Sanderson, a French Polisher, of Goodson-road, Fulham, by stabbing him with a carving knife.

Divisional Detective Inspector Allum stated that he went to Fulham Hospital, where he saw Carter, who later saw Carter detained at North Fulham Police Station. He cautioned him and told him he would be charged with the murder of Sanderson. Carter then said:

"I can only say he deserved it. He was always causing trouble in our family. When I saw he was knocking my sister and mother about, naturally, I could not stand that, could I?"

That was the knife I used. I put it upstairs again afterwards. Carter said he had no questions to ask.

Inspector Allum: I understand that his mother and sister desire to see him.

Mr. Marshall (the magistrate): I have no objection whatever.

DUAL PERSONALITY.

WOMAN CHARGED WITH FRAUD.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

Kathleen O'Brien, alias Norah Harrison, 35, appeared at the Westminster Police Court recently on a charge of obtaining money—£21—by false pretences from the Professional Classes Aid Council, of Brompton-road, S.W.

Mr. Martin O'Connor defended. Evidence was called to show that in the autumn of last year, over a considerable period, the defendant in an assumed name, from her residence at Westbourne-grove, appealed for assistance in letters detailing ill-health and poverty.

She stated that her landlord was distraining for rent, and that she was threatened with eviction, &c. As a result of her communications she was asked to give the names of persons who could vouch for her character. To comply with this direction it was said that she wrote her own references, using "accommodation" addresses in different parts of London and fictitious names.

Detective-sergeant Widdows gave evidence that on seeing the defendant with reference to obtaining £21 from the charity she said that she could not remember what had occurred.

"Not Guilty" Plea.

The defendant through her counsel pleaded not guilty, and elected to give evidence. She stated that she had been a secretary engaged in research work. Asked by Mr. O'Connor if it was the fact that she had been in an asylum, the Magistrate, interposing, said he was not going to try the issue of insanity.

Mr. O'Connor said that for the defendant he must put forward the plea of mental irresponsibility. He desired to call evidence.

Dr. R. M. Riggall, of 31, Wimpole-street, W., describing himself as a specialist in clinical psychology, deposed that in 1927 the defendant was one of his patients, her case being one of "dissociation of personality"—in other words, "dual personality."

The Magistrate—What exactly does that mean?

The witness—It means that she was suffering from an extremely rare condition in which there is a distinct second personality outside consciousness. The effect is that she would be quite irresponsible for certain actions—the actions of her second personality would not be known by her true personality.

Asked as to a person's remembrance of such acts which were done in the different states, the witness said there would be no recollection from one to the other.

The Magistrate asked if this was not, indeed, a rare form of mental disease.

The witness—It is well-known among psychologists.

The Magistrate—Is it now put forward in mitigation or as insanity?

Mr. O'Connor—Irresponsibility of action at times.

The Magistrate—I will commit the defendant for trial to the Sessions.

Bail was accepted.

GIRLS' 100-MILE WALK TO MEET SAILORS.

DESTITUTE AFTER VAIN SEARCH.

Two girls, one aged nineteen and the other fourteen, who wanted to renew their acquaintance with two young Norwegian seamen, walked from Sunderland to Hull. Except for "lifts" on motor-lorries, they walked the greater part of the hundred miles, and at Hull stayed at an hotel. They failed to trace the Norwegian sailors, and they were almost at the end of their resources when they stopped a police officer in the street and explained their plight.

They were then cared for at a home for girls. One of them was sent back by train, but in the case of the other it was reported that her father was in hospital and there was no one in charge of her home. She was therefore detained at Hull.

KILLED BOARDING A TRAMCAR.

WIFE DISAPPEARS FROM HUSBAND'S SIDE.

MOTOR-CAR TRAGEDY.

"A motor-car came flashing by, and when I looked round my wife had disappeared."

This statement was made by Mr. Albert George Hucklestep, of Manor Park, Lee, at the inquest held at Greenwich on his wife, Matilda, aged sixty-one, who was knocked down and killed by a motor-car when they were about to board a tramcar together in Lewisham High Road, Deptford.

Dr. W. H. Whitehouse, the coroner, adjourned the inquest. Cornelius Ryan, of Oaklands Road, Boxley Heath, has been remanded on the charge of the manslaughter of Mrs. Hucklestep.

Mr. Hucklestep said that when the tramcar was standing at the stopping place he saw that the road was clear, and turned to his wife, saying, "Come on, my dear." He held out his hand to her, and at that moment a motor-car "came flashing by," and when he looked round his wife had disappeared.

He ran after the motor-car, picking up his wife's hat, bag, and shoes, until he came to her body some fifteen yards away.

Mr. Hucklestep, replying to Ryan, said that he saw the lights of the motor-car in the distance, but he thought that they were too far away to be of any danger to himself. He was astounded that the motor-car could have reached them in such a few seconds.

Medical evidence showed that Mrs. Hucklestep had four fractures of the skull and many other injuries.

CLUB WITH 8,000 MEMBERS FINED.

COURT DECISION IN A WHIST PROSECUTION.

APPEAL ADVISED.

A suggestion that whist could not be considered a game of pure skill was made by the Recorder of Liverpool (Mr. E. G. Hemmings) during the resumed hearing of a case of considerable interest to all clubs which promote whist drives.

The case, which was heard at Liverpool Sessions, was, one in which fifteen men were accused of assisting in keeping a gaming house at premises known as the O.K. Social and Whist Club, Soho Street, Liverpool, and the club, as a company, with keeping the premises for conducting whist drives contrary to the Gaming Laws.

Recorder and Gaming.

It was stated that last year the club had more than 8,000 members. Its capacity was 1,200, and on Saturday nights there would often be that number present. The receipts on such nights would be about £200.

"I am going to tell the jury," said the Recorder, "that for the purpose of this case a common gaming house is a house in which a number of persons are invited to congregate for the purpose of gaming. I am going to tell them that the playing of games of cards for money is gaming."

The jury returned a verdict of "Guilty," and the Recorder imposed a fine of £25 on the club as a company. Five officials of the club were each fined 10s., the remaining ten persons being fined 5s. each.

"I consider it would be a very good thing if this was thrashed out in a higher court," said the Recorder, in imposing the fines. "In the event of there being no appeal, and the club continues to go on as it is now, there are quite appropriate penalties, running up to £500, and terms of imprisonment to which they can become liable."
